

Unit 1

Know yourself

Knowing yourself is the beginning of all wisdom.

In this unit,
we will

- 1 read about people who are happy with their jobs;
- 2 learn about the connection between personality and success;
- 3 write a recommendation letter;
- 4 better understand how personality can influence our lives.

People with different personalities are suitable for different jobs. Let's find out more about our personalities and recommend a classmate for a position in our class.

Welcome to the unit

Different personalities

A Some words are often used to describe people's personalities. Help Millie complete the following sentences with the words in the box.

creative curious energetic modest organized patient

Suzy is very _____.
She keeps all her things in good order.

Mr Wu is _____.
He explains the grammar rules to us carefully.

Andy is very clever, but he is _____ and never shows off.

Daniel is _____.
He often comes up with new ideas.

Simon is very
_____. He always plays football for hours.

Billy is _____ about everything. He likes studying different things.

B Millie and her classmates are talking about their personalities and possible future jobs. Work in groups and talk about the topic. Use the conversation below as a model.

Millie: I'm patient and I don't get angry easily. I know that makes me good at working with people. What about you, Paul?

Paul: I'm careless sometimes, especially with numbers. Neither my parents nor I think I will make a good accountant. What job would you be good at, Sandy?

Sandy: My art teacher says I often have exciting ideas. I would be good at creative jobs, I suppose. How about you, David?

David: I'm active and I love talking with people. I'm a social person. I think my future job involves chatting with lots of people.

C Do you know other words to describe people's personalities? Make a list with your partner.

Reading

People who are happy with their jobs

Millie is reading an article in Sunshine Daily. It introduces four people in Sunshine Town who are happy with their jobs. Here is the article. Before reading it, think about the questions below.

- 1 Do you know people who are happy with their jobs? Who are they? What are their jobs?
- 2 What do you think makes people happy with their jobs?

Wu Wei, artist

“He’s a born artist. He’s quiet, but his work shouts.” This is how Wu Wei’s best friend described him. Wu Wei’s creative work impresses not only his friends but also the whole town. His sculptures for Sunshine Town Square have won high praise from the art community. “I’ve always enjoyed using my imagination to make great art,” he said. “I want to keep sharing new, interesting work with people.”

Su Ming quit her job as an accountant five years ago and started working in sales for a big company. “I’m active and energetic, and I love working with people. But in my last job, I had to work with numbers most of the time.” Su Ming is now the sales manager of the company. “I’m happy that I changed my job. This one suits me better,” she added.

Su Ming, sales manager

Liu Hao, engineer

Liu Hao, together with his team, has just completed
20 the high-speed railway project connecting Sunshine Town to Tianjin. As the lead engineer, he is serious about his work and pays attention to every detail.
“To us, a miss is as good as a mile. Any mistake may cost lives,” said Mr Liu. One of his team members 25 mentioned, “He always works to high standards, but he’s modest and easy to work with.”

Fang Yuan, a doctor at Sunshine Hospital, is kind and patient. She loves her job very much.
“I wanted to be a doctor when I was very 30 young. I think nothing is more meaningful than helping the sick and saving lives,” she explained. Working at a hospital can be tough.
Doctors must be very careful at all times and often work long hours. But Ms Fang thinks it is 35 worth it.

Fang Yuan, doctor

A Complete the table below with the information in the article.

Person	Job	Qualities
	(1) _____	(2) _____ and creative; Likes using his imagination
	(3) _____	Active and (4) _____; Loves working with people
	(5) _____	Serious about his work; Pays attention to (6) _____; Modest and easy to work with
	(7) _____	Kind and (8) _____; Always wants to help sick people and save lives

B Read the article again and answer the questions below.

- 1 Why did Wu Wei's best friend say "his work shouts"?

- 2 Why did Su Ming change her job?

- 3 Why is it necessary for Liu Hao to pay attention to every detail?

- 4 What does Fang Yuan think of helping the sick and saving lives?

- 5 Which two of the four people need to be careful all the time in their work?
Why?

C Sandy and Peter are talking about what jobs would make them happy. Complete their conversation with the correct forms of the words and phrases in the box.

Sandy: What job would make you happy, Peter?

Peter: I want to be an engineer so that I can help build important things like a high-speed ⁽¹⁾ _____. When I grow up, I will work to make train travel faster and more enjoyable for passengers.

Sandy: That sounds like the perfect job for you! You not only ⁽²⁾ _____ every detail but also plan things carefully. I think you could be a good project ⁽³⁾ _____ too.

Peter: Thanks. What job do you want to do, Sandy? I know you're learning painting, and as our Art teacher ⁽⁴⁾ _____, you seem to have a great love for art.

Sandy: Exactly. I'm very interested in fashion. I'd love to be a fashion designer.

Peter: Cool! You have a fantastic ⁽⁵⁾ _____. Your T-shirt designs for our sports meetings always ⁽⁶⁾ _____ us!

Sandy: Really? I think they need some improvement. I have ⁽⁷⁾ _____ for myself.

Peter: It sounds like a job in fashion would ⁽⁸⁾ _____ you. I think your qualities together with hard work will help you realize your dream!

D Think about the questions below. Share your answers with your classmates.

- 1 How do people's personalities influence their choice of job? Use the examples in the article to explain.
- 2 Which of the four jobs in the article do you think suits you the most? Give your reasons.
- 3 In your opinion, why is it important for people to find a job that suits their personalities?

Grammar

A Connecting ideas

Read the texts below and pay attention to the words and phrases in bold.

Many business managers are not only well-organized, but also creative.

Are you both creative and hard-working? If so, you could be either a painter or a fashion designer. Before you decide on a job, it is best to think about your personality as well as your goals.

Lots of people have big dreams, but they are too shy to tell anyone except their closest friends. Sometimes, neither their parents nor their teachers know about their goals.

Expressions	Meaning
both ... and ...	To emphasize that something is true not just of one person, thing or situation, but of another too not only ... but (also) ...	To add another fact to something you have mentioned either ... or ...	To mean one or the other neither ... nor ...	To mean not this one and not the other except	To show that someone or something is not included in a situation as well as	To emphasize that more than one thing is true of a person, thing or situation

When we use these expressions to connect two subjects, the verb form after both ... and ... is always plural, but the verb form after not only ... but (also) ..., either ... or ... and neither ... nor ... can be plural or singular, depending on the subject closer to the verb.

Both Kitty and Simon are energetic.

Not only the students but (also) their teacher has done the personality survey.

Either Simon or David is ready to take on new challenges.

Neither Millie nor her friends know much about personality types.

- We use both ... and ..., not only ... but (also) ... and as well as when something is _____ (true of two things, true of one thing and untrue of another thing).
- We use either ... or ... to show a choice of two things.
- We use neither ... nor ... when something is _____ (untrue of two things, true of one thing and untrue of another thing).
- We use except when something is _____ (true, untrue) of a thing.

A1 Amy is writing about her family. Complete her sentences with the correct connecting words or phrases.

- 1 _____ my mum _____ my dad are hard-working. They work very long hours!
- 2 I think _____ Alice _____ John will be the winner of the art competition. They are both very creative.
- 3 My cousin Cody is a literature lover. He _____ reads a lot, _____ writes short stories in his free time.
- 4 All my family members _____ my brother are outgoing. My brother is the opposite—he is quite shy!
- 5 My aunt is helpful _____ patient with kids. That is why she is such a good primary school teacher.
- 6 I want to be _____ an engineer _____ an accountant. I am not good at working with numbers!

A2 Amy and Suzy are talking about what jobs their classmates can do in the future. Complete their conversation with the correct connecting words or phrases.

Amy: I've learnt about jobs and personalities recently.

Suzy: Really? What jobs do you think our classmates can do in the future?

Amy: I think Millie would make an excellent teacher. She's ⁽¹⁾ _____ willing to work with children _____ patient with them.

Suzy: You're right. These qualities, together with her kindness, would make her a perfect teacher. What about Simon?

Amy: He's active and good at playing football. I think he can be ⁽²⁾ _____ a PE teacher _____ a football player.

Suzy: What about David and Lisa? Do you think they will be artists?

Amy: Well, they're clever ⁽³⁾ _____ organized. But artists should be creative. ⁽⁴⁾ _____ David's _____ Lisa's personality is suitable for being an artist, I'm afraid.

Suzy: Hmm ... sounds true. How can I learn more about jobs and personalities?

Amy: You can read about them ⁽⁵⁾ _____ from some books _____ on the internet. As a matter of fact, I made a list of books about jobs and personalities. I recommend all the books on this list ⁽⁶⁾ _____ the last one. It's too long.

A3 Talk with your partner about what jobs your classmates can do in the future, using the connecting words or phrases you have learnt above.

B Object clauses introduced by that

Read the text below and pay attention to the use of that.

(1) Millie feels lucky that she has good teachers in her school. (2) She hopes that she can be a teacher when she grows up. (3) Millie thinks that great teachers should be hard-working, kind and patient. (4) She is glad that she has these qualities herself and (5) believes that they will help her become a good teacher. (6) She is sure that she needs to work hard to help prepare herself for the future.

An object clause can be put after verbs such as hope, think, believe, know and mean (☞ see clauses 2, 3 & 5).

An object clause can also follow adjectives such as lucky, glad, sure and certain (☞ see clauses 1, 4 & 6).

In informal English, we often drop that.

Daniel: Do you think (that) you're creative?

Millie: I hope (that) I am!

An object clause functions as the object of a sentence. We use that to introduce an object clause that is a _____ (statement, question).

B1 Sandy is writing a passage about what she wants to be in the future. Complete it using the correct object clauses from the box below. Add that when necessary.

I'll be a successful designer this won't be easy fashion designers probably work hard she supports me

I won't let her down

I want to become a fashion designer in the future. I know ⁽¹⁾ _____ _____ for me. I think ⁽²⁾ _____.
I'm willing to work hard too. I'll do anything to make my dream come true! My mum is certain ⁽³⁾ _____ in the future. She always describes me as a very creative person. I'm glad ⁽⁴⁾ _____. She gives me lots of encouragement.
I hope ⁽⁵⁾ _____!

B2 Write a short text about what you want to do in the future, using object clauses introduced by that.

Integration

Personality and job success

A Simon is reading a magazine article about what influences personality. Read the article and answer the questions below.

Skimming means reading the text quickly to get the main idea. When skimming, read the title, the headings, the first and last paragraphs, and the first sentence of each paragraph.

How is your personality formed?

Your personality is a special mix of your thoughts, feelings and behaviours. How is your personality formed? Most people believe that it is influenced by both nature and the environment.

By nature

Some parts of your personality are passed on to you by your parents. That is why people say, "Like father, like son." Sometimes, these qualities do not change easily and may remain the same for your whole life.

By the environment

The environment, including your education, your experiences as well as the people around you, can change your personality. For example, you may become confident if you successfully complete difficult tasks through hard work. That is how your experiences influence your personality.

These things all influence your personality. In other words, a mix of nature and the environment most likely shapes your personality.

- 1 Is it possible to change parts of your personality? If so, how can you do this?
- 2 Which parts of your personality do you think are formed by nature and which parts by the environment?

B1 Simon is listening to a lecture about the relationship between personality and job success. Listen to the lecture and complete the notes below.

Personalities more likely to achieve job success

- (1) _____
- Careful
- Confident
- Look on the (2) _____ of situations

Personalities less likely to achieve job success

- Focus too much on the negative side
- Get angry, afraid or (3) _____ easily
- Feel (4) _____ with their jobs

B2 Simon is talking to his cousin Judy about how their personalities influence their lives. Listen to their conversation and complete the table below.

Name	Personality	Influence
Judy	Quite (1) _____	Believes that if she (2) _____ and works hard, she can find a way to solve any problem
Simon	A great (3) _____	Knows how to (4) _____ with others in many different areas of his life

B3 Simon is writing a diary entry about the lecture and the conversation with his cousin Judy. Complete Simon's diary entry with the information in Parts B1 and B2.

10 September

Last night, I listened to a great lecture, all about the connection between personality and job success. According to the speaker, successful people share many qualities. They are usually (1) _____, careful and confident. They also usually look on the (2) _____ of situations. I try to do that too! However, if people are more likely to see the (3) _____ everywhere and often feel angry, afraid or (4) _____, they are usually less successful.

I discussed the topic with Judy. She believes that our personalities and our lives are connected too. She thinks that her personality influences her life a lot. She is (5) _____. That helps her feel less (6) _____ about any problem. As for me? I am a good (7) _____. Judy pointed out that because of this quality, I know how to (8) _____ with other people in many different areas. I hope that our personalities will make us both successful in the future.

C Simon is talking to Sandy about the things that have influenced his personality. Work in pairs and talk about the topic. Use the conversation below as a model.

Sandy: What do you think influences your personality, Simon?

Simon: I think that playing football has influenced my personality and taught me never to give up.

Sandy: What do you mean?

Simon: Well, at first, I wasn't very good at football, but I really enjoyed it. I decided to practise as often as I could. Now I'm in the school team.

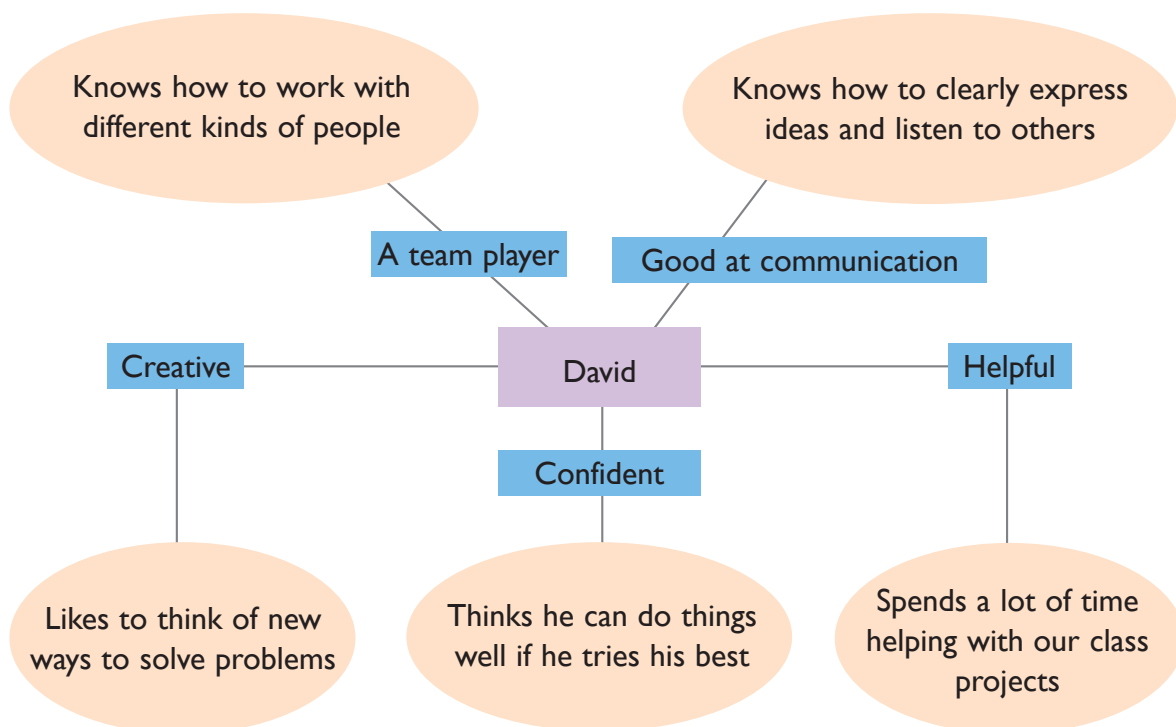

Sandy: That's great. Your hard work paid off.

Simon: So now, no matter what challenges I meet, I won't give up until I find a way to succeed.

Sandy: What an excellent quality!

D Class 1, Grade 9 needs a new president of the Students' Union. Mr Wu asked each student to write a recommendation letter.

D1 Simon wants to recommend David. He is making a mind map to organize his ideas about David. Here is the mind map.

D2 Read Simon's recommendation letter below.

We use formal language in a recommendation letter. Avoid using contracted forms like I'm and he's.

Address your reader

Dear Mr Wu,

Explain the purpose of your letter

I am writing to recommend David for president of the Students' Union. David has all of the qualities for the position.

Explain why you are recommending the person

David has excellent communication skills and is able to work well with others. He not only knows how to express himself clearly, but is also good at listening to others. What's more, he is a good team player. He knows how to work with different kinds of people. These abilities allow him to cooperate well with our classmates and teachers.

David has many other good qualities. He is very helpful. He spends a lot of time helping with our class projects. He is creative too. Recently, he came up with some new ways to improve our school's recycling project. David is also confident and never afraid to voice his ideas. He thinks he can do things well if he tries his best.

Sum up your main idea

For all of these reasons, I believe that David is the right choice for president of the Students' Union. I hope that you consider him for this position.

Conclude with a sign-off and your name

Yours sincerely,
Luo Yang

D3 Write a letter to recommend a classmate for a position in your class. You can make a mind map like Simon's in Part D1. Use Simon's letter as a model.

Useful expressions

I am writing to recommend ... for the position of ...

... has all of the qualities to be ...

... is perfect for the position of ... because ...

He/She is confident/friendly/hard-working/..., so he/she will ...

His/Her personality is perfect/suitable/fit/... for the position, because ...

For all of these reasons, I believe that ... is the right choice.

I hope that you consider him/her for the position.

In this unit,
we will

- 1 read about common teenage problems;
- 2 learn how to deal with these problems;
- 3 describe our teenage problems and ways to solve them;
- 4 better understand the importance of dealing with problems wisely in teenage years.

It is normal to experience different problems during teenage years. Let's look at some common ones and learn how to deal with them.

Welcome to the unit

Common teenage problems

A Some students in Class 1, Grade 9 are talking about their problems. Listen to them and complete their sentences.

I don't get _____.
I feel tired in class.

I don't have enough time to _____.

My mum _____ in my life. It drives me mad.

I don't have any
_____.
Sometimes I feel lonely.

I _____
with my schoolwork.
I feel sad.

My parents
_____. They don't have time for me.

B Millie is talking to her mum about her problems. Work in pairs and talk about your problems. Use the conversation below as a model.

Mum: You've been in low spirits all day. Is everything OK, Millie?

Millie: I feel so tired lately. I wonder if I'm going to bed too late.

Mum: I think you are. Staying up late is not a healthy habit and can lead to big health problems. You should start going to bed earlier.

Millie: I often spend a lot of time reading. That's why I go to bed so late.

Mum: It's good that you like reading, but it's more important to get enough sleep. If you don't want to cut back on reading, you should try to manage your time better.

Millie: I'll try that. Thanks, Mum.

C Do you know any other teenage problems? Give one example and describe it.

Reading

What should I do?

Kitty and Simon have some problems. They wrote to Mr Friend, a famous youth worker, and asked for advice. Here are the two letters. Before reading, think about the questions below.

- 1 When you have problems, who do you usually ask for advice? Why?
- 2 Have you ever given a friend advice about a problem? What was the problem? What advice did you give?

Dear Mr Friend,

I am Zhang Ke. I have some problems with my parents, and I am not sure what to do.

I feel like my parents make all the decisions in my life and 5 I do not have any chance to be myself. They choose my clothes for me. When I want to wear something different, they say they know best. I am never allowed to eat food my parents think is unhealthy, even as a treat. If we go to a restaurant, they order for me without asking what I want.

10 I know I am young, but I think I should be able to make some decisions. Every time I try talking to them about this, they either lose patience or just stick to their own opinions. I know my parents love me, but I
 15 think they are too strict with me. I wonder if we understand each other at all! Do you have any advice?

All the best,

20 Zhang Ke

TIP Scanning means moving our eyes quickly over the text to look for specific information that will answer our questions.

Dear Mr Friend,

My name is Luo Yang. I am under a lot of stress at school!

I feel like I never have enough time to do everything 5 I need to. I often have to spend more time on my schoolwork than my classmates, so I have to stay up late to finish it. This means I am often tired the next day. Sometimes I waste time on my mobile 10 phone when I still have some schoolwork to do.
I always regret it after, but I just do not know how to control myself. Moreover, I love playing football, and I often play for hours with my friends after school. But I do not want my schoolwork to suffer because of it. I wonder whether I should cut back 15 on football.

Now I am falling behind in many of my classes.
I need to find a way to fix this situation. I really hope you can offer me some advice.

Best wishes,

20 Luo Yang

How to manage stress at school

Are you having problems with your schoolwork? You are not alone. Lots of teenagers have a hard time with their schoolwork. Worries about low marks and exams can cause ⁽¹⁾ _____ for many students. The good news is that there are ways to manage these worries and improve the situation.

First of all, it is important to have good study habits. One good habit is to study a little bit every day. Do not wait until the last minute to study for your exams. You will just ⁽²⁾ _____ it. Secondly, make sure that you are focused when studying. Stay away from your mobile phone, or at least try to ⁽³⁾ _____ using it. Your ability to study well will ⁽⁴⁾ _____ if you are playing with your phone.

Sometimes, even the top students may ⁽⁵⁾ _____ in their studies, and if you feel like you are in this situation, you should talk with your teachers. They might be able to help you come to a ⁽⁶⁾ _____ about what to do next.

Some problems take time to solve, so please have some ⁽⁷⁾ _____. Just ⁽⁸⁾ _____ the right way, and things will be better!

D Think about the questions below. Share your answers with your classmates.

- 1 Whose problem do you think is more difficult to solve, Kitty's or Simon's? Give your reasons.
- 2 What advice would you give to Kitty and Simon?
- 3 What do you think is the most important thing when dealing with teenage problems?

Grammar

A Object clauses introduced by if or whether

Read the text below and pay attention to the object clauses introduced by if or whether.

Amy often argues with her best friend about silly little things. She wonders if this is normal, so she talks to her mum about it. She asks whether her mum has any advice. Her mum tells her to talk to her friend about the situation. Amy wants to improve her friendship, but she isn't sure if talking about it will help.

We use if or whether to introduce an object clause that expresses a yes/no question. Such an object clause often follows verbs such as ask, see, wonder and find out. The word order in the clause should be the same as that in a statement.

Is this normal?

She wonders if this is normal. ☐

She wonders if is this normal. ☐

We often use whether instead of if in formal situations.

The teacher wanted to know whether the students were under a lot of stress.

A1 Amy is writing a diary entry about her schoolwork. Complete it below using that, if/whether.

I just had my history exam, and I don't know ⁽¹⁾ _____

I passed it. I know ⁽²⁾ _____ I tried my best, but I'm not sure

⁽³⁾ _____ that's good enough. I'll have to wait to find out.

I really hope ⁽⁴⁾ _____ I do well in school this year. That's why

I work so hard every day. I'm not sure ⁽⁵⁾ _____ I need to do more. I wonder ⁽⁶⁾ _____ it would improve my grades or it would stress me out even more. In the bottom of my heart, I just want to succeed and feel proud of myself.

A2 Talk with your partner about your learning problems, using object clauses introduced by if or whether.

B Object clauses introduced by question words

Read the text below and pay attention to the object clauses introduced by question words.

Teenagers often have problems with their parents. They do not always understand why their parents have so many rules. Although this is a common problem, many teenagers do not know what they should do about it. They are not sure how they can have an honest dialogue with their parents, and they do not know who they can ask for advice.

TIP Whom is an object pronoun. In a very formal style, whom is sometimes used instead of who.

Work out the rule!

We use a question word to introduce an object clause that expresses a wh-question. The word order in an object clause introduced by a question word should be _____ (different from, the same as) that in a wh-question.

B1 The Class 1, Grade 9 students are talking about their problems. Complete each object clause below with the correct question word.

Kitty

My parents often stick to their own ideas. I don't know _____ I can communicate with them.

Peter

I need someone to share my worries with. I wonder _____ I should go to for help.

Amy

I've tried my best, but I don't understand _____ I still get low marks.

Sandy

My parents often come home very late. Sometimes I don't know _____ I can talk to them.

Paul

Sometimes I'm careless. I wonder _____ I can be more careful.

Suzy

I often have difficulty in expressing myself. Who can tell me _____ I should do?

B2 Daniel has some questions. Rewrite his questions by using object clauses introduced by if/whether or a question word.

- 1 Why did I argue with my friends yesterday?
Can I explain _____?
- 2 Can Millie help me get along well with my friends?
I wonder _____. I know she is very friendly.
- 3 Where can I find useful articles on the topic of friendship?
I want to know _____. I think I need to learn more about friendship.
- 4 How much sleep do we need every day?
I wonder _____.
- 5 Do I need to buy an English dictionary?
I am not sure _____.
- 6 Do the students need to exercise every day?
Can you tell me _____?
- 7 What would life be like without science?
I cannot imagine _____.

B3 Sandy and Millie are talking about their problems. Complete their conversation with that, if/whether or a question word.

Sandy: Do you ever feel lonely, Millie? I know ⁽¹⁾ _____ I often feel that way. But I'm not sure ⁽²⁾ _____ that's normal.

Millie: Yes, sometimes I feel lonely too.

Sandy: Do you have any advice? I'm never sure ⁽³⁾ _____ I should do about it.

Millie: I usually talk to my parents. That helps me. But I don't know ⁽⁴⁾ _____ it will work for you.

Sandy: I'll try, but my parents are always busy. So I don't know ⁽⁵⁾ _____ else I can talk to.

Millie: I see your problem. Have you ever heard of Mr Friend? He's a youth worker. He helps teenagers with their problems. Maybe you can write to him.

Sandy: That sounds like a great idea. Now I know ⁽⁶⁾ _____ I can find help. Thanks, Millie.

B4 Write a short letter to Mr Friend to talk about one of your problems, using object clauses introduced by that, if/whether and question words.

Help is on the way

A Daniel is reading a magazine article about common teenage problems. Read it with him and answer the questions below.

Two common teenage problems

Teenage years are a stage of change and growth. Every day, teenagers are dealing with all kinds of stresses and problems. Two common problems are body changes and friendship troubles.

Teenagers' bodies change greatly during this stage. It is common for them to grow taller and for their bodies to experience rapid changes in shape. Many teenagers suffer from skin problems, which make them feel ugly. And changes in mood are very common. Sometimes, it is hard for them to deal with all these changes.

Most teenagers also run into trouble with some of their friends. Sometimes your friends may want you to do things that you probably do not want to do, but it might be hard for you to say no. After all, you do not want to risk losing the friendship.

It is important for teenagers to understand that they are not alone and that almost everyone goes through these problems. If you are feeling bad during your teenage years, first try talking to your friends or an adult who can give you advice.

- 1 What are the common teenage problems talked about in the article?
- 2 Have you had any of the problems discussed in the article? How did you deal with the problems?

How to deal with teenage problems

Are you finding teenage life difficult? You're not alone. Teenage life can be full of problems. The two most common ones are body changes and friendship troubles. Here are some ways to deal with these two problems.

Let's start with body changes. Putting on weight, for example, can make you feel like a stranger in your own body and even make you feel ugly. Just remember: change is normal for teens during this time. However, it's important to make sure you stay healthy. To do this, you should always eat well and ⁽¹⁾ _____ often. It's also ⁽²⁾ _____ to grow quickly during this stage. But everyone is different; some teenagers grow faster or slower than others. The best advice: try not to ⁽³⁾ _____ about it too much.

Now let's talk about teenage friendships. These aren't always easy. Sometimes, your friends may ⁽⁴⁾ _____ you to do things for them. If you're uncomfortable about doing these things, you shouldn't do them. Also, your friends should never say ⁽⁵⁾ _____ things to you. If you're in a situation like this, consider spending more time with ⁽⁶⁾ _____.

C Daniel and Millie are talking about their problems and offering each other advice. Work in pairs to discuss your problems and give advice to each other. Use the conversation below as a model.

Daniel: What's wrong, Millie? You look worried.

Millie: I am! I'm so nervous about my midterm exams. Just thinking about it makes my throat feel tight. Do you have any advice?

Daniel: Why not try some breathing exercises? Those always help me relax before exams. Here, let me show you.

(Daniel teaches Millie how to do breathing exercises.)

Millie: Oh, that makes me feel a bit better! Thanks. What about you? You don't look happy either.

Daniel: To be honest, I often feel lonely lately.

Millie: I'm sorry to hear that. Maybe you could spend more time with friends. Would you like to go to the library with me after school?

Daniel: Great! I'd love to.

TIP Expressions used to make suggestions are:
Why not try ...?
It would be good to ...
Maybe you could/can ...

D A friend of yours is experiencing a problem. Write a letter to give advice on the problem.

D1 Read the notes about how to deal with common teenage problems. Add your own advice on each problem.

Feeling lonely	➤ Join a new club or take part in an activity ➤ Talk with your friends and family ➤ _____

D2 Millie's friend Raymond wrote to her about his problem with school bullying. Millie wrote an email telling him how to deal with it. Read her email below.

SUBJECT My advice

Hi Raymond,

I'm so sorry to hear that you're having trouble with a school bully. Bullying is a terrible problem, and it causes a lot of pain. No one should have to put up with that.

It is very important not to let a bully get you down. Bullies like to make others feel bad about themselves. But my dear friend, do remember that you are a kind and valuable person. Be strong and stand up for yourself.

I understand being bullied may bring about feelings of shame and fear. But don't be afraid to tell people what is going on. Talk to your parents or a teacher about the situation and ask them for support. They will help you.

Remember that you are not alone. If you need someone to talk to, please reach out to me. I'm always here for you.

With love and support,
Wang Xinyue

Unit 3

Never give up

Where there's a will, there's a way.

In this unit,
we will

- 1 read about the scientist Stephen Hawking;
- 2 learn about people who never give up;
- 3 describe people's experiences of overcoming difficulties;
- 4 better understand the spirit of never giving up.

Everyone may face hardships in their lives. However, where there is a will, there is a way. Let's learn about some people with a strong will and discuss their spirit of never giving up.

Hold on to your dreams

A Millie has found the poem “Dream”. Read the poem with her and share what you think of its topic.

Dream

My dream, it started very small,
A seed inside of me.
I thought about it every day,
And wondered what it would be.

My dream, it seemed so far away,
But still that little seed grew.
I thought about it every day,
And hoped it could come true.

My dream, it is in front of me.
It's a journey I must start.
I'll work towards it every day,
To achieve what's in my heart.

B Millie and Kitty are talking about their dreams. Work in pairs and discuss your dreams and how to achieve them. Use the conversation below as a model.

Kitty: What's your dream for the future, Millie?

Millie: My dream is to become a teacher.

Kitty: That's a wonderful goal. Do you think it'll be hard to achieve your dream?

Millie: Yes. It'll take a lot of hard work, and I'll also need experience in working with children. In addition, I think I need to develop my patience and communication skills.

Kitty: I think you can do it.

Millie: What's your dream?

Kitty: I want to be a great dancer, but I know it won't be easy. It requires years of tough practice.

Millie: Dreams are not easy to achieve. The key is to work hard and never give up.

Reading

Against the odds

Millie is reading an article about the famous scientist Stephen Hawking. Here is the article. Before reading, think about the questions below.

- 1 What do you think has been the most difficult challenge so far in your life?
- 2 What do you know about Stephen Hawking?

Stephen Hawking: the mind beyond the wheelchair

Stephen Hawking, recognized as one of the greatest scientists of his time, was known for his contributions to science as well as how he overcame great suffering in his life. His story made him a household name and an inspiration to all.

- 5 Hawking was born in England in 1942. He went to the University of Oxford at 17 and then to the University of Cambridge to further his studies. Sadly, he was diagnosed with a terrible disease shortly after his 21st birthday. This disease slowly robs people of the ability to move their muscles.
- 10 Hawking was told he only had a few years to live.

As his illness got worse, Hawking started using a walking stick to get around and later needed a wheelchair, yet he had a surprisingly positive attitude towards life. "Although I cannot move and I have to speak through a computer, in my mind 15 I am free," he said later. Hawking lived on and continued to work till he died at 76.

Despite his poor health, Hawking's influence on modern science is great. Much of his work focused on understanding our universe better and explaining the beginning of space and 20 time. His work has not only changed our view of the universe, but also provided people with a new way of thinking about the universe. He was also known for his continued efforts in trying to explain very difficult scientific ideas to a wider audience. His highly popular book, A Brief History of Time, has been translated 25 into more than 30 languages and sold over 25 million copies since it was first published in 1988.

Today, whenever Hawking's name is mentioned, people remember not only his scientific achievements, but his courage to fight against his difficulties. Hawking never let his illness
30 stand in his way. "However difficult life may seem, there is always something you can do and succeed at," he once said. "It matters that you don't just give up."

A Complete the chart below with the information in the article.

B Read the article again and answer the questions below.

The painter and the musician

Many famous people have achieved great things even though they had to deal with difficult challenges in their lives. Their stories encourage us not to give up when we find ourselves in tough situations.

Today, Vincent van Gogh is ⁽¹⁾ _____ as one of the most important artists in history, and his work is enjoyed by a wide ⁽²⁾ _____. However, while he was alive, he only sold one painting. Van Gogh experienced serious health problems, and these caused him great ⁽³⁾ _____. Still, even when times were hard, he continued painting. After his death, people finally understood Van Gogh's ⁽⁴⁾ _____ to the art world.

Ludwig van Beethoven's life story is also famous all over the world. He met huge difficulties in his life, but faced them with great ⁽⁵⁾ _____. When he was around 30 years old, he started to have trouble hearing. This problem got worse until he could not hear at all. However, Beethoven never let his disease ⁽⁶⁾ _____. In fact, he wrote some of his best works after the disease ⁽⁷⁾ _____ his hearing.

These stories remind us that it is important not to focus on the bad things in our lives, but instead, to keep our eyes on our goals. A positive ⁽⁸⁾ _____ in life can be very powerful.

Grammar

A Using before, after, when and while

Read the text below and pay attention to the use of before, after, when and while.

When I was a child, my dream was to become an Olympic swimmer. One day, while I was training, I hurt my shoulder. I had to get months of treatment. When my shoulder was better, I had to work hard to get back into shape. After I recovered, I trained for four years and finally made it to the Olympics! My coach was proud of me. He was sure about my success before the accident happened.

when: during a certain time while: during a certain time when: at a certain time after: later than a certain time before: earlier than a certain time

When we use before, after, when or while _____ (at the start, in the middle) of a sentence, the opening clause is followed by a comma.

A1 Simon is writing a blog post about his uncle. Complete it below using before, after, when or while.

(1) _____ my uncle was younger, he wanted to be a famous basketball player. He played in his school's basketball team (2) _____ he was a student. He was pretty good!

Sadly, my uncle had a bad accident (3) _____ he was training hard for a big match. He hurt his knees badly, and they never fully got better. My uncle was so sad! (4) _____ he had his accident, everyone thought he would become a great basketball player. But he couldn't play well (5) _____ he hurt his knees.

Although my uncle didn't become a famous basketball player, he never gave up his love for the sport. (6) _____ he got over the accident, he decided to become a basketball coach. Today he helps young athletes achieve their dreams!

A2 Think of a person with a strong will. Talk with your partner about this person, using before, after, when and while.

B Using since, till and until

Read the text below and pay attention to the use of since and till/until.

Since I learnt about the amazing stories of Stephen Hawking, I have often thought of his example when I find something challenging. I won't give up till I achieve my goal. I am also very impressed by Hawking's books. Many of the questions about the universe were too difficult for common people to understand until Hawking wrote his books.

Since means from a certain time.

Till and until both mean up to a certain time.

When we use verbs like go, leave, arrive, come, etc. in the main clause, we should use the structure not ... till/until.

Till/Until I achieve my dreams, I won't leave.
Do not give up until you reach your goal!

TIP Till is more informal than until.

We can use since, till and until _____ (at the start or in the middle, only at the start) of a sentence.

B1 Sandy and Simon are talking about their dreams. Complete their conversation using since or till/until.

Simon: Do you have any big dreams, Sandy?

Sandy: Sure. I want to become a famous fashion designer. That has been my dream ⁽¹⁾ _____ I was 10 years old. I know it won't be easy. But I won't stop trying ⁽²⁾ _____ I succeed.

Simon: In that case, I'm sure you'll reach your goal some day.

Sandy: Thanks, Simon. I'll teach myself about fashion design ⁽³⁾ _____ I get a chance to study it further at university. What about you?

Simon: Well, ⁽⁴⁾ _____ I was very young, my dream has always been to become a good football player.

Sandy: I think you can! You've been one of the best football players at school ⁽⁵⁾ _____ Grade 7. It won't be long ⁽⁶⁾ _____ a good coach notices you.

B2 Have you set a goal recently? Talk about it with your partner, using since and till/until.

C Using as soon as and whenever

Read the text below and pay attention to the use of as soon as and whenever.

Whenever I face a challenge, I think about my role model. His experience gives me hope as soon as it comes to mind. I know if I never give up, I will succeed.

whenever: at any time
as soon as: when something happens, or a short time after something has happened

We can use as soon as and whenever _____ (at the start or in the middle, only at the start) of a sentence.

C1 Kitty is writing an email to her cousin Linda in the USA. Complete the email using before, after, when, while, since, till/until, as soon as or whenever.

Where there's a will, there's a way

A Simon is reading an article about the Olympic spirit. Read it with him and answer the questions below.

The Olympic spirit

When people think of the Olympic Games, they often think of medals, but the Olympics are about so much more. They are about friendship, fair play and never giving up. We call this the Olympic spirit, and we can see it in the hearts and stories of many Olympic athletes.

Kieran Behan, an Irish gymnast, had the dream of competing in the Olympics from a young age. When he was just 10 years old, he fell ill and doctors told him that he would never walk again. However, Kieran didn't let this stop him, and he worked hard to get back to training. He got injured when he was 12, and doctors said the same thing. But still, he didn't give up. Finally, at the age of 23, his dream came true: he made it to the London 2012 Olympics.

The Olympic Games are more than a competition. They celebrate not only amazing performances, but also people's will to keep going even when the way forward seems impossible.

- 1 What did Kieran Behan experience before he competed in the 2012 Olympic Games?
- 2 Do you think the Olympic spirit is also required in our lives? Why?

B1 Simon is listening to the story of an Olympic athlete on the school radio. Listen with him and complete the fact sheet below.

- He is a(n) ⁽¹⁾ _____ runner.
- He competed at the ⁽²⁾ _____ Olympic Games.
- During the semi-final race at the Olympics, he hurt his ⁽³⁾ _____ badly.
- His ⁽⁴⁾ _____ helped him make it to the finish line.
- His story teaches us that the Olympic Games are about ⁽⁵⁾ _____.

B2 Simon is talking to Sandy about never giving up. Listen to their conversation and complete the notes below.

- According to Simon and Sandy, never giving up is the most important quality for ⁽¹⁾ _____.
- When Simon feels like a situation is ⁽²⁾ _____, he thinks of Redmond.
- When Sandy feels like giving up, she thinks of her aunt. Her aunt wanted to be a(n) ⁽³⁾ _____, but dealt with many ⁽⁴⁾ _____ at first.

Never give up!

Whatever your goals are, it is so important to never give up! That is what I learnt from Derek Redmond, the famous ⁽¹⁾ _____. He practised for years to get to the Olympics and finally went to compete at the ⁽²⁾ _____ Olympic Games. But during a big race, he hurt his ⁽³⁾ _____. Instead of giving up, Redmond decided to keep going. He was in so much pain that his ⁽⁴⁾ _____ had to help him get to the finish line.

I think about Derek Redmond whenever I am in a difficult ⁽⁵⁾ _____ and feel like quitting. Derek Redmond's story really encourages me to keep going. He is such a great example!

Many other people have followed their dreams in the face of challenges. Sandy's ⁽⁶⁾ _____ is one example! She wanted to be a(n) ⁽⁷⁾ _____, but it was not easy. Although she had to deal with lots of challenges, she stuck to her dream and achieved great success.

We all need role models like these people. They help us remember to follow our dreams, no matter what!

C Amy and Daniel are talking about how people get through difficulties. Work in pairs and discuss how people you know have got through tough times. Use the conversation below as a model.

Amy: Do you know about Anne Frank, Daniel? She was a teenager during World War II.

Daniel: I've heard of her. Why do you ask?

Amy: I just think she was so brave. During the war, she and her family had to live in hiding. It was a terrible time, but they never gave up hope. Anne kept a diary and recorded her experiences. It has become a symbol of the victory of the human spirit.

Daniel: I agree. It's amazing how Anne managed to get through the tough times. Her story reminds me of Xian Xinghai, a musician who also lived through World War II.

Amy: I've heard of him. He wrote great music in times of war.

Daniel: Yes. He kept writing music and wouldn't let anything stop him. His music greatly encouraged Chinese people during difficult times.

Challenges	• He was born with a terrible disease. • He cannot walk or turn over in bed by himself. • The disease caused a lot of pain, and he sometimes had to lie down during lessons. • It was difficult for him to take notes in class.
Goal	To be a great scientist.
Success	Became a top student at his school and was accepted into a top university.

D2

Amy wrote an article about Yang Fan. Read her article below.

The story of Yang Fan

Basic information about the person

Yang Fan was born with a terrible disease. It is impossible for him to perform everyday tasks, like walking or turning over in bed by himself. Despite these challenges, Yang has set big goals for himself. He wants to become a great scientist, like Stephen Hawking.

What the person experienced

With the help of his parents, Yang went to school and became a top student. But it wasn't easy. The disease caused him great pain, so sometimes he had to lie down during lessons. In addition, taking notes in class was difficult for him because it was hard for him to write quickly. He did not want to disappoint his family as well as himself, so he always tried his best. After years of hard work, Yang was finally accepted into a top university in China.

Ending

Thanks to his strong will, Yang finally got a chance to continue his dream. His story is a great example of never giving up.

A cactus can find _____ in tough conditions.

Lotuses grow beautiful flowers even in _____.

Pine trees have _____ even in cold winter.

Bamboo does not break in the wind and continues to grow _____ after the wind passes.

B Millie and David are talking about life lessons inspired by plants. Work in pairs and discuss what you can learn from plants. Use the conversation below as a model.

David: Did you know that plants are really useful and interesting?

Millie: Of course, and we can learn a lot of lessons about life from them.

David: Yes. Bamboo is a good example. It's so strong that even a typhoon cannot break it.

Millie: So it is.

David: I think this can teach us not to give up when we face difficulties. We can carry on like bamboo till the hard time passes.

Millie: I agree. I think pine trees encourage us to have a strong spirit. They're green all year round, even in the winter. That reminds me to have confidence in my ability and always be my best self.

David: That's true.

TIP "Did you know (that) ..." is commonly used to share a fun fact or a piece of knowledge.

Reading

Be like a peanut

Millie has read an essay about peanuts. Here is the essay. Before reading, think about the questions below.

- 1 What do you know about peanuts?
- 2 What are some of the uses of peanuts?

An essay is used to express one's feelings or communicate one's ideas.

The peanut

At the back of our house, there was a small piece of unused land. "It's a pity to let it go to waste like that," Mother said. "Since you all enjoy eating peanuts, let's make it a peanut field." My brother, sister and I were all excited. We began 5 buying seeds, digging up the ground and watering the plants. In a couple of months, we had a harvest!

"Let's have a party tonight to celebrate," Mother suggested. She cooked the peanuts in a few different ways and told us to go to the garden for the celebration.

10 "Who can tell me what peanuts are good for?" Father asked.

"They're delicious to eat," my sister took the lead.

"They're good for making oil," my brother followed.

15 "They're cheap," I said. "Almost everyone can afford to buy peanuts and most people like eating them."

“Peanuts are good for many things,” Father said, “but still, there’s one special thing about them. Unlike apples and peaches that show their fruits in the air and attract people
20 with their beautiful colours, the peanut plant hides its fruits in the earth. Until you dig it out, you can’t tell by looking at its thin stem whether it bears fruit or not.”

“That’s true,” we all said. Mother nodded too. “Trying to be like the peanut is a good idea.” Father went on, “It’s useful, 25 though not very attractive.”

“Do you mean,” I asked, “compared with being useful, looking for attention and praise from others is not that important?”

“Yes,” Father said. “This is what I mean. And this is what I
30 expect of you.”

We stayed up late that night and ate all the peanuts Mother had cooked for us. But Father’s words remain clear in my memory to this day.

A Millie is trying to divide the essay into three parts. Help her write the paragraph numbers (1–11) and match each part to the correct main idea.

Part 1: paragraph(s) _____

They grew peanuts and had a harvest.

Part 2: paragraph(s) _____

They prepared a party to celebrate the harvest.

Part 3: paragraph(s) _____

They discussed the good qualities of peanuts and what people can learn from them.

Dad said every life on earth has a goal, and this goal is ⁽²⁾ _____ any other's. In the park, he saw an apple tree and walked over to it. I followed him. "This tree ⁽³⁾ _____ fruit very well," he said. "That is its goal. What's yours? It would be a great ⁽⁴⁾ _____ if you don't find out." For the rest of our walk, I tried to think about my goal in life. It feels like a hidden treasure, waiting to ⁽⁵⁾ _____.

Later that night, I had a conversation with Mum about finding my goal in life. She suggested that I think about what I truly ⁽⁶⁾ _____ of myself, and she gave me ⁽⁷⁾ _____ examples. Then, I asked her if she thought being a teacher was a good idea. She nodded because she thinks teaching is very important to society. Mum helped me realize that being a teacher may be my life goal. ⁽⁸⁾ _____ other choices, it suits my personality. It also seems more meaningful than other jobs. I'm going to work hard to achieve this goal!

Grammar

A Using verb-ing

Read the text below and pay attention to the use of verb-ing.

Amy often sees her parents help others. She thinks helpfulness is an ⁽¹⁾ amazing quality. To show thanks to her parents, she likes ⁽²⁾ cooking dinner for them at weekends so they can relax. ⁽³⁾ Seeing them ⁽⁴⁾ enjoying the food brings Amy great happiness. For Amy, ⁽⁵⁾ showing kindness to others is an important part of ⁽⁶⁾ living a good life.

- We can use the -ing form of verbs as nouns. We can use them as subjects or objects.

Used as subjects: 3, 5

Used as objects: 2, 6

- We can also use the -ing form of verbs as object complements. This use is common after verbs such as hear, see, watch, catch and feel.

Used as object complements: 4

- We can also use the -ing form of verbs as adjectives. We can use an -ing adjective directly before a noun, or after a linking verb (such as be).

Used as adjectives: 1

A1 Amy is talking to her mum about how to live a good life. Complete their conversation using the correct forms of the verbs in brackets.

Amy: How can I live a good life, Mum?

Mum: That's an ⁽¹⁾ _____ (interest) question, Amy. In my opinion, ⁽²⁾ _____ (live) well means ⁽³⁾ _____ (find) your purpose in life.

Amy: I certainly want to do ⁽⁴⁾ _____ (amaze) things in my life!

Mum: That's good to hear. I know you're very hard-working, and this will help you be successful in the future. Your work should be ⁽⁵⁾ _____ (excite) to you. When you're excited by your work, your life will be quite ⁽⁶⁾ _____ (satisfy).

Amy: You're right. I'll keep that in mind.

Mum: But work isn't everything. ⁽⁷⁾ _____ (enjoy) yourself is important too!

Amy: That's true. We should try to keep a balance between work and play.

A2 Talk with your partner about your opinions on the purpose of life, using verb-ing.

B Using verb-ed

Read the text below and pay attention to the use of verb-ed.

Do you get excited about your work? If you're not interested in your job, you'll never love it. And if you don't love your job, you might never be satisfied in life. This is why it's so important to find an exciting job.

We can use the -ed form of verbs as adjectives. We can use an -ed adjective directly before a noun or after a linking verb.

Although the -ing and -ed forms of verbs can both be used as adjectives, they have different meanings. The -ing form usually has an active meaning, while the -ed form usually has a passive meaning.

The boss is satisfied with John's job. ≈ The boss thinks that John's job is satisfying.
She was interested in the story. ≈ She thought the story was interesting.

We usually use the _____ (verb-ing, verb-ed) form to describe the quality of something.

We usually use the _____ (verb-ing, verb-ed) form to describe how people feel about something.

B1 Daniel is asking Mr Wu for advice on how to live a meaningful life. Complete Mr Wu's advice using the -ed form of each verb in the box.

- Find an exciting job. When you enjoy your work, you're more likely to be a ⁽¹⁾ _____ person.
- Try not to be ⁽²⁾ _____ by other people when you don't like their behaviour. Try to understand them instead.
- If you get ⁽³⁾ _____ of your work, remind yourself why it's important.
- Get some interesting hobbies. You should feel ⁽⁴⁾ _____ about them!
- Try not to worry too much. ⁽⁵⁾ _____ people are not very happy.
- It's OK to feel ⁽⁶⁾ _____ by life! Overcoming difficulties can bring personal growth.

B2 Millie is writing some sentences about her friends and family members. Complete her sentences using the correct forms of the verbs in brackets.

- 1 My uncle is never _____ (bore) with his work.
- 2 My cousin's wife enjoys _____ (work) as a dentist. She gets to help lots of people.
- 3 I heard Dad _____ (talk) about how much he likes his job when he was chatting with his friend on the phone.
- 4 Amy felt _____ (encourage) to live a useful life after reading a passage about peanuts.
- 5 Sandy thinks the work of a designer is very _____ (excite).
- 6 _____ (discuss) meaningful jobs in class made Simon think about his own future.

B3 Millie is writing a blog post about her cousin. Complete her blog post using the correct forms of the verbs in brackets.

My cousin is a bone doctor. Her job involves ⁽¹⁾ _____ (help) fix people's broken arms and legs.

Although she works very long hours, she has a lot of great hobbies. She has a large stamp collection and she's very good at chess. ⁽²⁾ _____ (play) chess is fun for her. She's also ⁽³⁾ _____ (interest) in skiing. When she has time off, she often goes skiing. My cousin always makes time for me, even when she's feeling ⁽⁴⁾ _____ (tire). Whenever I need to talk to her about something, she's there for me. When I'm feeling down, she always has ⁽⁵⁾ _____ (encourage) words for me.

My cousin knows how to live a great life. I want to learn as much as I can from her. I imagine myself ⁽⁶⁾ _____ (be) just like her when I grow up.

B4 Write a short text about what you can do to be a useful person, using verb-ing and verb-ed.

Finding meaning in life

A Amy is reading a feature article about Fan Jinshi. Read with her and answer the questions below.

Daughter of Dunhuang

Anyone interested in Dunhuang is likely to have heard of Fan Jinshi. Fan is known to many as the “Daughter of Dunhuang” because she has devoted a large part of her life to researching and protecting the ancient Dunhuang caves.

Dunhuang caves house about 45,000 square metres of wall paintings and over 2,000 painted sculptures. Sadly, these treasures were damaged due to natural causes over thousands of years and overtourism in the last century.

In the late 1980s, Fan came up with the idea of digitalizing the caves. She led her team to create the “Digital Dunhuang” website in 2016 after more than 30 years of hard work. Thanks to the continued efforts from Fan and her team, the world gets to enjoy this wonder.

- 1 How has Fan Jinshi helped protect the Dunhuang caves?
- 2 What do you think of focusing one’s life on a single important project?

B1 Amy is listening to the story of Fan Jinshi. Listen with her and complete the notes below.

About Fan Jinshi

Early years

- Born in Beijing and ⁽¹⁾ _____ in Shanghai

Life in Dunhuang

- First went to Dunhuang in ⁽²⁾ _____
- Lived in a small ⁽³⁾ _____ with no electricity or running water and the drinking water was ⁽⁴⁾ _____
- Went to ⁽⁵⁾ _____ in Dunhuang after she graduated in 1963

Reasons for working there

- Fell in love with the ⁽⁶⁾ _____ of the caves
- Felt it was her duty to ⁽⁷⁾ _____ and serve the needs of her country

Contribution

- Has brought many ⁽⁸⁾ _____ to Dunhuang

B2 Amy and Daniel are talking about how to live a meaningful life. Listen to their conversation and complete the notes below.

Ways to live a meaningful life

- Devote yourself to something ⁽¹⁾ _____
Example: Fan Jinshi devoted her life to ⁽²⁾ _____ the Dunhuang caves, an important national treasure.
- Make a difference in ⁽³⁾ _____—give your love and help to others as often as possible
Example: Lei Feng was a(n) ⁽⁴⁾ _____, but he was kind and helped people his whole life.

B3 Amy wrote an article about how to live a meaningful life. Complete it below with the information in Parts B1 and B2.

As we grow up, we must think of what we will do in our lives. We all hope to live a meaningful life, but how can we do that?

Fan Jinshi is an example of someone with a very meaningful life. She went to work in Dunhuang after she ⁽¹⁾ _____. Life was difficult there at first because there was no electricity or ⁽²⁾ _____. But Fan fell in love with the ⁽³⁾ _____ and wanted to protect them. After many years of hard work, the condition of the caves has been improved a lot. Fan is now in her old age, but she is still working hard to ⁽⁴⁾ _____ Dunhuang.

Some people believe that to have a meaningful life, you must devote yourself to something ⁽⁵⁾ _____ than you, like Fan. She spent her life protecting a national ⁽⁶⁾ _____. But it can also be important to ⁽⁷⁾ _____ in a small way. Lei Feng is a good example. He gave ⁽⁸⁾ _____ to people around him during his short life. I think any life can have meaning if we contribute in some way.

C Amy is talking with Daniel about people who have influenced them. Work in pairs and discuss people who have influenced you. Use the conversation below as a model.

Amy: Some people spend their whole lives doing important things. Have you heard of Zhang Guimei? For years, she has fought for girls in China to get an education.

Daniel: Oh, yes. She even started a free high school for girls in Yunnan Province. She has helped lots of people. I think we can judge how meaningful our lives are by how many people we help.

Amy: Exactly. I'm amazed by her story. She said that people have to do something while they're alive. I think she's doing something really meaningful!

Daniel: She's a great woman.

Amy: I love stories about people like Zhang Guimei. I believe such stories can help us find purpose in life.

D Mr Wu asked the Class 1, Grade 9 students to write about the person who has influenced them greatly.

D1 Mr Wu gave the students some questions to help them organize their ideas. Answer the questions below.

1 Who has influenced you the most?

2 What did/does he/she do?

3 What were/are his/her best qualities?

4 Which of his/her achievements have influenced you?

5 What do you think of his/her life?

D2

Mr Wu shows a model article to the students. Read the article with them.

Introduction to the person

I think my father has a very meaningful life. He is an ordinary man, but he is very kind and helpful. Every day, he tries his best to help others.

What the person
did/do

Whenever his friends or family need help, he is always ready to lend a hand. And it is normal for him to take care of old people in our neighbourhood in his free time.

My father does not just help people in his everyday life. He has also donated blood more than 20 times. This is enough to save about 70 lives. Even his death will have meaning since he has decided to donate his body for medical research when he dies.

The person's influence

My father believes it is meaningful to support those around you. He has a heart full of love. I am greatly influenced by my father and have made up my mind to live my life just like him.

D3 Write an article about the person who has influenced you the most based on the information in Part D1. Use the article in Part D2 as a model.

Project 1

A poster about yourself

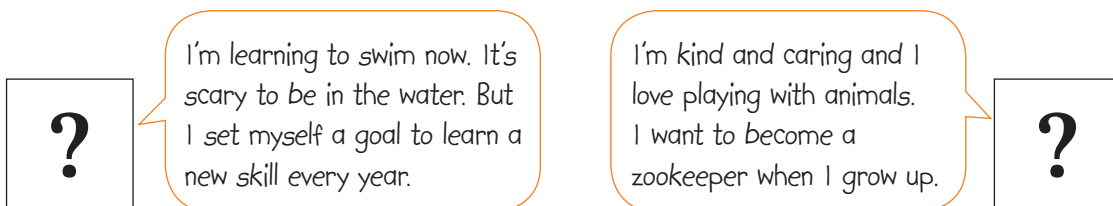

Each student in Class 1, Grade 9 has made a poster about themselves. They are using the posters to play the game “Who am I?”—students look at the poster and guess who this poster is about. Your class wants to do the same thing.

A Plan

- 1 Work in groups. Discuss the things to include in your poster. You can use the list below to help you.

- Your hobbies
- Your favourite things
- Your dream jobs
- Special qualities
- Some interesting facts about yourself
- Things or experiences that you are proud of
- Challenges you are going through now
- The person who has influenced you the most

- 2 Work alone. Decide on what to include in your poster and make a note of each thing. Remember that what you include should help others identify you, but try not to make it too obvious.

- 3 Think about other elements, for example, pictures, drawings or icons, and include them in your poster to make it lively.

B Make

- 1 Write your texts. Read through your writing and check for mistakes.

I am tall and I love sport.
I have long hair and a ponytail.
I wear glasses and I am always on the go. Who am I?

- 2 Get a large piece of paper and draw a rough plan. Think about how to fit everything onto the paper. Remember not to crowd your paper too much.
- 3 Draw some pictures of your hobbies, your future plans, etc.
- 4 Use coloured pencils to make your poster look good. Think about how colours and messages are connected.
- 5 Decorate your poster with icons, symbols or pictures.

C Share

- 1 When you have finished, hand in your poster to your teacher. Your teacher will give each of you another student's poster to read aloud to the whole class.
- 2 You will guess who made each poster. The first student to guess correctly gets a point. The student who gets the highest score at the end of the game is the winner.

Unit 5

Music speaks

Music is a piece of art that goes in the ears straight to the heart.

In this unit,
we will

- 1 read about the composer Tan Dun;
- 2 learn about different styles of music;
- 3 describe our favourite music;
- 4 better enjoy the beauty of music.

Sunshine Middle School is holding a music festival. Let's learn about music styles and famous musicians and discuss our favourite music.

Welcome to the unit

Musical instruments around the world

A The Class 1, Grade 9 students are learning about musical instruments around the world. Listen to the introductions and complete the sentences below.

The piano has a keyboard of _____ keys.

The violin is usually played with a bow across its _____ strings.

The guitar has _____ strings.

The guzheng usually has _____ strings.

The pipa is pear-shaped and has _____ strings.

The erhu only has two strings and is usually played with _____.

B Daniel and Sandy are talking about some of the instruments mentioned above. Work in pairs and talk about an instrument you have learnt about. Use the conversation below as a model.

Daniel: Are you good at playing the piano, Sandy?

Sandy: Yes. I started taking piano lessons when I was six.

Daniel: Wow, that's nice. Is it easy to play the piano?

Sandy: It's easy to get it to make a sound, but I still find it challenging because it has so many keys and requires a lot of finger strength. Do you play a musical instrument, Daniel?

Daniel: I can play the violin. I learnt to play it at the age of five.

Sandy: Great! It seems hard to play it well.

Daniel: True. It's difficult because it requires skilled bow control. So it takes a lot of practice to play notes well.

C Can you play a musical instrument? If yes, do you like playing it? If not, do you want to learn one?

Reading

Tan Dun's music

Sandy is reading a magazine article about the famous composer Tan Dun. Here is the article. Before reading, think about the questions below.

- 1 Who is your favourite Chinese composer or musician? What do you know about him or her?
- 2 Have you heard of Tan Dun? What do you know about him?

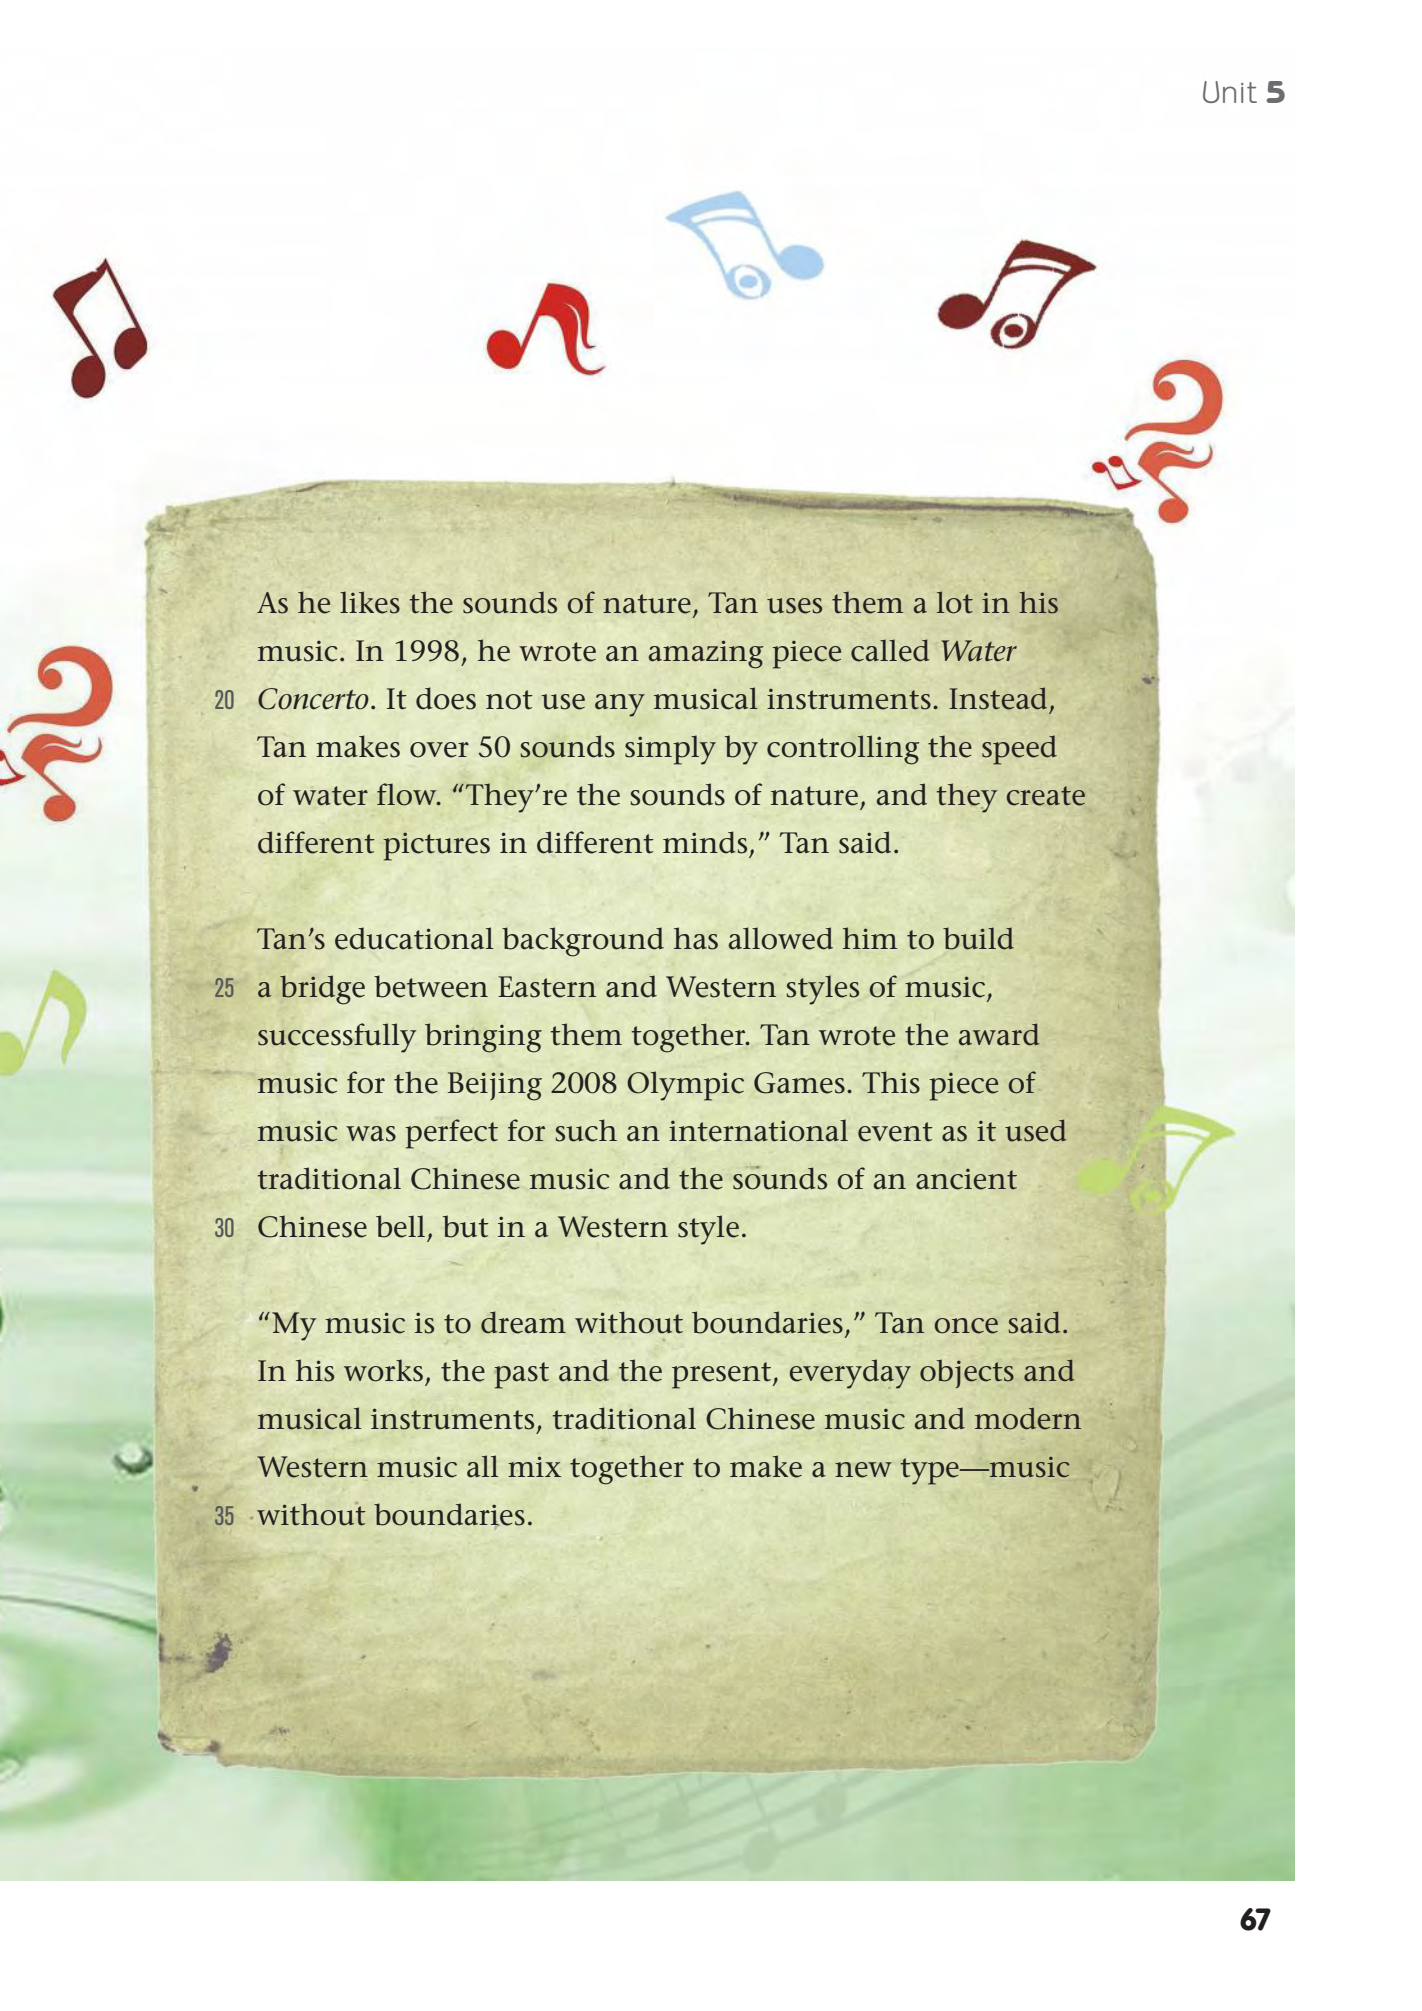

Music without boundaries

The 15th UN Convention of Biological Diversity opened to the beautiful music of "One Earth One Spring". Tan Dun, a world-
 5 famous composer, wrote the music. His unique style has earned him great respect and success in the world of music.

Born in central Hunan, China, Tan Dun grew up near the Liuyang River. Tan showed an interest in music when he 10 was very young. He loved the sounds of the rushing water and the blowing wind because, to him, the best music came from nature. Since he had no musical instruments then, he made music with common objects like stones and paper.

In 1978, Tan entered the Central Conservatory of Music in 15 Beijing. Eight years later, Tan went on to study music in the USA. There he became familiar with Western music and got to know great musicians worldwide.

As he likes the sounds of nature, Tan uses them a lot in his music. In 1998, he wrote an amazing piece called Water 20 Concerto. It does not use any musical instruments. Instead, Tan makes over 50 sounds simply by controlling the speed of water flow. “They’re the sounds of nature, and they create different pictures in different minds,” Tan said.

Tan’s educational background has allowed him to build 25 a bridge between Eastern and Western styles of music, successfully bringing them together. Tan wrote the award music for the Beijing 2008 Olympic Games. This piece of music was perfect for such an international event as it used traditional Chinese music and the sounds of an ancient 30 Chinese bell, but in a Western style.

“My music is to dream without boundaries,” Tan once said. In his works, the past and the present, everyday objects and musical instruments, traditional Chinese music and modern Western music all mix together to make a new type—music 35 without boundaries.

A Fill in the profile card about Tan Dun with the information in the article.

Tan Dun is a very talented musician. He has written many
(1) _____ pieces for films and important events, including the 2008 Olympics. In 2016, he wrote "Light Up My Dream" for the opening celebration of Shanghai Disneyland. The celebration was such an event!

The song "Light Up My Dream" includes a mixture of Western and Chinese (2) _____, such as the violin and the erhu. Tan also mixed songs from Disney films and his own work. This helps build a bridge between (3) _____ and Western styles of music.
This is common in his works. His music is interesting because he often crosses the (4) _____ between different styles of music.

When I listened to "Light Up My Dream", I was very moved by the
(5) _____ beauty of the music. (6) _____ speaking, it made me feel happy and excited. I believe it was the perfect song for the opening celebration.

As a (7) _____, Tan has won many awards for his work. He has (8) _____ praise and respect from music lovers and the press all over the world.

D Think about the questions below. Share your answers with your classmates.

- 1 How do you understand the title "Music without boundaries"?
- 2 Why was the award music Tan wrote for the Beijing 2008 Olympics suitable for such an international event?
- 3 What do you think of making music with the sounds of nature?

Grammar

A Giving reasons with because and for

Read the text below and pay attention to the use of because and for.

According to scientists, playing an instrument is helpful to teenagers, for it improves brain power, memory and confidence. Because the benefits are so positive, scientists recommend teenagers learn to play at least one instrument.

We can use because and for to give reasons. Because puts more emphasis on the reason that is not known to the listener/reader. A because-clause can go after or before the main clause.

Many people have heard of him because he's a great musician.

The tone of because is strong, and we use because to answer why-questions.

Millie: Why do you love Beethoven?

Daniel: Because his music is powerful. It moves me every time I listen to it.

We can also use for to introduce clauses of reason. For is less common than because. For is used to introduce the reason that is given as an afterthought. For-clauses never come at the beginning of a sentence and cannot stand alone. We use for to give reasons in a very formal and often literary context.

Sandy loves listening to light music, for it is relaxing.

He used the sound of water, for this reminded the audience of the music of nature.

A1 Sandy did some online research about Tan Dun and made some notes. Help her rewrite each pair of sentences into one sentence, using because or for.

1 People think highly of Tan Dun's music. He successfully brought Eastern and Western styles of music together.

2 Tan Dun likes the sounds of nature. He thinks nature creates its own music.

3 Many people love Tan Dun's music. His music is very special.

4 Tan Dun is a world-famous composer. He was chosen to write music for the Beijing Olympics.

A2 Talk with your partner about your favourite musician, using because and for.

B Giving reasons with since and as

Read the text below and pay attention to the use of since and as.

Mozart is one of the most famous musicians in history. Since his father was also a musician, he learnt about music early in his life. Mozart wrote his first piece of music when he was just five years old. As he was clearly very talented, it is no surprise that he became a great musician.

TIP There is no big difference in meaning between since and as.

Since and as are also used to give reasons for something. Usually, the reasons are already known. Their tone is weaker than because.

Since he had no musical instruments then, he made music with common objects like stones and paper.

As he likes the sounds of nature, Tan uses them a lot in his music.

TIP We can use both since and as at the start of a sentence or in the middle of a sentence.

B1 Sandy made some notes about the school music festival. Help her rewrite each pair of sentences into one sentence with since or as.

1 Daniel is going to play the violin at the music festival. He is good at it.

2 Kitty will sing a song at the festival. She is practising hard these days.

3 I can draw very well. I will design the poster for the music festival.

4 There will be piano lessons. Some students want to learn how to play the piano.

5 The music festival is open to all students and parents. Everybody is welcome.

B2 Sunshine Middle School gave all the students free tickets to a Beijing opera show during the music festival. Sandy is writing a passage about it. Help her improve her passage by rewriting the underlined sentences using the words in brackets.

(1) Our school gave us free tickets to a Beijing opera show. I was very excited. (because) It can help us learn more about different forms of music. I planned to take the underground to the theatre.

(2) Millie also planned to take the underground. We went to the theatre together. (since) When we arrived, Kitty was already there. Soon Simon and Daniel came too.

(3) It was still early. We bought some bottles of water at a nearby shop. (as) Then we waited for Amy outside the theatre.

(4) The man at the door told us to enter the theatre. The opera was about to start. (for) But Amy was not there yet. After a while, we saw Amy running towards us. (5) She was late. The traffic was rather bad. (because)

We were lucky. (6) The opera started five minutes late. We did not miss anything. (since) It was a wonderful performance. We all loved it!

- 1 _____
- 2 _____
- 3 _____
- 4 _____
- 5 _____

B3 Write at least four sentences about a musical event at your school, using because, for, since and as.

It was a great day because I learnt about different kinds of music.

B Kevin, an exchange student from the UK, listened to the song "Jasmine Flower" and liked it very much. Read Kevin's article about it and answer the questions below.

"Jasmine Flower"

Last week, my friend Sandy took me to a traditional Chinese folk music concert at Sunshine Middle School. I was not familiar with this type of music, but I was interested in learning all about it. We listened to the song "Jasmine Flower", a beautiful and meaningful piece of music.

"Jasmine Flower" is well known all over China. It is also one of the first pieces of traditional Chinese music to become popular around the world. It was even used in a famous Italian opera.

Listening to "Jasmine Flower" makes me feel very relaxed and happy. It reminds me of the simple beauty of the jasmine flower. I am excited to listen to more traditional Chinese folk music.

- 1 Why does Kevin like the song "Jasmine Flower"?
- 2 What song has had a powerful effect on you? Why?

C Sandy is inviting her friend Janice to a concert. Work in pairs and take turns to invite your partner to a concert. Use the conversation below as a model.

Sandy: Would you like to go to a concert tonight, Janice?

Janice: Of course. What kind of concert is it?

Sandy: It's a classical music concert.

Janice: Great! I love classical music as listening to classical music is good for our brain.

Sandy: Yes. It can also help us relax and improve our sleep.

Janice: When does the concert start?

Sandy: At 7 p.m.

Janice: And where is it held?

Sandy: At Sunshine Theatre.

Janice: OK. Since the concert is at 7 p.m., shall we meet at the gate of the theatre at 6:30?

Sandy: All right. See you then.

D Mr Wu asked the Class 1, Grade 9 students to write an article about their favourite music style.

D1 Complete the questionnaire about your favourite music style below.

3 What instruments are common in this style?

4 When did you become interested in this style?

5 What musicians are famous for this style?

6 What are your favourite pieces of music in this style?

D2 Read Sandy's article about her favourite music style.

Style of music	My favourite style of music is classical. I love classical music because I think it is beautiful and it usually makes me feel relaxed and happy.
Instrument(s) used	Common instruments in classical music include the piano, violin and flute. These instruments make a wide range of sounds. Sometimes they are soft and gentle, but they can also be loud and powerful. Together they create a very moving sound.
Famous musicians and pieces	Two of my favourite classical musicians are Beethoven and Mozart. Since they are both very famous, many people know and love their works. My favourite piece is Mozart's The Magic Flute . This exciting three-hour opera has many interesting characters and lots of wonderful songs. I have downloaded the whole opera and listen to it all the time.
Conclusion	For me, there is nothing more powerful and calming than classical music. It fills my heart with joy.

D3 Write an article about your favourite music style based on the information in Part D1. Use Sandy's article as a model.

Nie Er, born in 1912, was a famous Chinese composer. He wrote the music for the song “March of the Volunteers”. It became China’s national anthem later. Nie Er was often known as “the people’s musician” because he wrote many songs about the lives and feelings of ordinary Chinese people in his time. Find out more about Nie Er and share your findings with your classmates.

Unit 6

The art of the brush

Through the power of the brush, a universe on paper unfolds.

In this unit,
we will

- 1 read about a calligraphy learning experience;
- 2 learn about calligraphy and painting;
- 3 describe our favourite painters;
- 4 better understand great artworks from around the world.

Chinese calligraphy and painting are great treasures of art. Let's learn more about Chinese and foreign artists and their works in order to better understand artistic beauty.

Welcome to the unit

Four treasures of the study

A The Class 1, Grade 9 students are learning about the tools of calligraphy. Listen to the introductions and fill in the blanks below.

Paper provides a good _____ for calligraphers to write on.

An inkstick is a piece of _____ ink.

Calligraphers make the ink with an inkstone and _____.

A brush allows calligraphers to use _____ to create beautiful works.

B Simon and Sandy are talking about the four treasures of the study. Work in pairs and talk about them. Use the conversation below as a model.

Sandy: Did you know that the history of the inkstick dates back thousands of years?

Simon: Wow! I've never seen an inkstick before. People usually buy bottled ink now, right?

Sandy: That's true. But many calligraphers still prefer inksticks.

Simon: I've noticed that the paper used by calligraphers is also different from the kind we usually use.

Sandy: Exactly. Calligraphers usually use a special kind of paper, called xuanzhi.

Simon: How is it special?

Sandy: It's soft but strong. It's perfect for practising calligraphy.

Simon: Interesting! I'd like to try writing on this type of paper!

C What Chinese calligraphers do you know about? Find one and share something about him or her with your classmates.

Reading

Writing as an art form

Sandy has written about her experience of learning calligraphy. Here is the article. Before reading, think about the questions below.

- 1 Have you ever tried practising calligraphy?
- 2 What do you think are the benefits of learning calligraphy?

My story with calligraphy

I watch closely as the tip of my brush meets the paper. I am pleased with my work as I finish the final stroke with care. My mother appears in the doorway and smiles at me. She is happy that I can make these Spring Festival couplets for our 5 home.

My love of calligraphy began when my father took me to a museum. I was amazed to see so many wonderful pieces of writing. To me, looking at ancient calligraphy was like looking at beautiful pictures. They caught my interest and I
10 decided to give it a try myself the very same day.

I still remember the first time that I tried using a brush. Practising calligraphy requires a lot of attention, and back then, this seemed impossible. I could hardly sit still for more than a few minutes! Over time, I learnt how to concentrate 15 on my task, and I took pleasure in producing better work. Learning calligraphy has undoubtedly helped me develop my ability to focus and taught me the importance of patience.

While practising my calligraphy skills, I also learn more about Chinese characters. They have developed from 20 drawings into present forms over thousands of years.
Calligraphy is an artistic form of Chinese characters that is admired by many people at home and abroad. Many famous calligraphers from different times have created beautiful works for us to enjoy. There are different writing styles, but 25 each has its own characteristics and beauty.

Calligraphy is now one of my hobbies that help me relax. When I am writing, I can often feel my breath slow down and my mind get quiet. Whenever I feel down or under pressure, I pick up my brush and start writing. Practising 30 calligraphy always makes me feel better.

Now my mother is carefully putting up the character fu and the couplets on the door. I look at this with pride and happiness.

A Read the article and match the paragraphs with the main ideas.

- Para. 1 I gradually learnt how to focus and produce better work when practising calligraphy.
- Para. 2 I am pleased with my calligraphy work, and my mother is happy with it.
- Para. 3 I feel proud and happy when my mother puts up my work on the door.
- Para. 4 My love of calligraphy began when I saw ancient calligraphy in a museum.
- Para. 5 I have learnt more about Chinese characters.
- Para. 6 Calligraphy is now one of my hobbies that help me relax.

B Read the article again. Choose the correct answers to the questions.

- 1 What was Sandy doing at the beginning of the article?
 - a Writing the Spring Festival couplets.
 - b Putting up the Spring Festival couplets.
 - c Admiring the Spring Festival couplets.
- 2 When did Sandy fall in love with calligraphy?
 - a When she tried calligraphy for the first time.
 - b When her father bought her calligraphy tools.
 - c When her father took her to a museum to enjoy calligraphy works.
- 3 What was it like for Sandy to learn calligraphy in the beginning?
 - a She loved it and could sit and practise for hours.
 - b She disliked it and thought about giving it up.
 - c She found it difficult, but she kept on practising.
- 4 What does Sandy think is a benefit of learning calligraphy?
 - a Learning calligraphy makes her healthier.
 - b Learning calligraphy brings happiness to her family.
 - c Learning calligraphy helps her focus and relax.

Calligraphy is a special part of our culture. With its own ⁽¹⁾ _____ and beauty, it attracts the attention of people all over the world. Would you like to ⁽²⁾ _____? Here is some advice that might help you get started:

- Make sure you have a great interest in this art form. It takes time and effort to practise. Unless you love it, you will never ⁽³⁾ _____ working on it.
- Calligraphy is a(n) ⁽⁴⁾ _____ form of Chinese characters. Learn the ⁽⁵⁾ _____ that are needed for each character because they are the key to writing well.
- Don't think about other things while you are working. ⁽⁶⁾ _____ every mark you make on the paper.
- When you make mistakes, don't feel any ⁽⁷⁾ _____. Even the greatest calligrapher makes mistakes.
- Visit art museums which house famous pieces of calligraphy as often as possible. Seeing great art will encourage you to improve your own. Keep practising and take ⁽⁸⁾ _____ in your progress.

D Think about the questions below. Share your answers with your classmates.

- 1 Why does Sandy begin her article with making the Spring Festival couplets?
- 2 What other benefits do you think practising calligraphy can bring?
- 3 Have you ever tried any form of art? If so, what was it and how did it make you feel?

Grammar

A Defining relative clauses

We use adjectives to describe someone or something.

a great calligrapher

a beautiful painting

But when we need a sentence to describe someone or something, we use a relative clause.

A calligrapher is someone who practises the art of writing beautifully with a brush.

A defining relative clause describes the noun before it. We cannot take it out of a sentence because it contains important information. We can use who, which or that in defining relative clauses.

The person who painted this landscape is very talented. (Which person?)

The painting that I loved the most in the museum was by Claude Monet. (Which painting?)

TIP

If we take the defining relative clause out of a sentence, the sentence may not give enough information to make much sense.

A calligrapher is someone. (X)

We use a defining relative clause to describe a noun that comes _____ (before, after) the clause.

A1 Sandy is writing about some famous calligraphers. Underline the defining relative clauses in her short passage below.

There are many fun stories about great calligraphers who lived in ancient China. First, there was Wang Xizhi, the famous calligrapher who used to wash his brushes in a pond near his house. He washed his brushes so often that the water turned black! Yan Zhenqing was another interesting calligrapher. When he was young, his family couldn't afford the things that he needed for calligraphy. Instead, he used a bowl as an inkstone, a wall as paper and mud as ink.

B Relative pronouns

Read the text below and pay attention to what who, which and that refer to in the sentences.

Calligraphy is an art form that is very popular in China. It is a form of writing which dates back over 3,000 years. Calligraphy is created with brushes and ink. There are many famous works by calligraphers that lived a long time ago. Some of the artists who created these works are well known at home and abroad.

*Work out
the rule!*

We use relative pronouns to introduce relative clauses.

We use who to refer to _____ (people, things).

We use which to refer to _____ (people, things).

We use that to refer to _____ (people, things, people and things).

B1 The students of Sunshine Middle School are going to a museum show. Mr Wu is telling the students about the show. Sandy is taking notes. Help her rewrite each pair of sentences into one sentence, using who, which or that.

- 1 Here is a poster for the museum show. It is on 20 October.

Here is a poster for the museum show _____.

- 2 At the show, students will see many paintings. These paintings are very modern.

- 3 Students will learn about modern art techniques. These may be unfamiliar to them.

Students will learn about modern art techniques _____.

- 4 Several artists will attend the event. They are famous for their creativity.

Several artists _____ will attend the event.

B2 Sandy is talking to her mum about the museum show. Complete their conversation with who, which or that and the expressions in the box.

will be at the show

Mum: Are you excited about the show ⁽¹⁾ _____, Sandy?

Sandy: For sure. One of the artists ⁽²⁾ _____ is my favourite painter! I can't wait to meet her!

Mum: Have you seen her paintings?

Sandy: I've seen most of them in books or magazines, but not in museums. The one ⁽³⁾ _____ is very colourful. It's a painting of three girls ⁽⁴⁾ _____. The techniques ⁽⁵⁾ _____ are quite creative. It's a beautiful painting!

Mum: Is that painting going to be at the show?

Sandy: Yes, it is! I look forward to seeing it up close.

B3 Look at the pictures below. Choose one picture and write a short paragraph about it, using defining relative clauses introduced by who, which and that. You can use the example and expressions below to help you.

The man who sits in the house is drinking tea.

- The man in the house
- The girl in red
- A basket
- Several trees

- The old man
- Three boats
- Yellow plants
- Wild birds

Integration

Different worlds of paintings

A Sandy is reading a magazine article about the differences between Chinese and Western paintings. Read the article and answer the questions below.

Paintings in the East and West

In general, there are some differences between Chinese and Western paintings.

- Traditional Chinese paintings are usually done with black and coloured ink, while many Western paintings often use more colourful oil paints.
- Traditional Chinese paintings may not require a background, and the empty space in the painting leaves room for imagination. Western paintings often place their subject in a setting with little empty space.
- Western paintings often look as close to the real subjects as possible, but traditional Chinese paintings pay more attention to the spirit of the subject.

Traditional Chinese paintings and Western paintings certainly have differences. However, both of them express the artists' thoughts in an artistic way.

- 1 What are the major differences between traditional Chinese paintings and Western paintings?
- 2 Do you prefer the Western or Chinese painting style? Give your reasons.

B1 Sandy is listening to an introduction to Chinese paintings. Listen with her and complete the fact sheet below.

B3 Sandy is writing a blog post about Chinese and Western paintings. Complete it below with the information in Parts B1 and B2.

I have studied painting for several years. The common tools used in Chinese painting are brushes, ink, and paper or (1) _____. Popular subjects are (2) _____, animals and plants, and people. There are (3) _____ main methods of Chinese painting. One is called gongbi and the other is called xieyi. My favourite traditional Chinese painting belongs to xieyi.

I know something about Western paintings. One of my favourite paintings is Vincent van Gogh's Starry Night. Van Gogh used a lot of (4) _____ to paint the sky at night. Another interesting Western painting is the Three Musicians. It is a famous work by Pablo Picasso. He used lots of (5) _____ to create faces. It is quite unusual. Of course, one of the most famous Western paintings is the Mona Lisa. It is in a museum in (6) _____. I really hope to see it some day.

C Sandy is discussing an art show with Millie. Work in pairs and talk about an artist or an art show. Use the conversation below as a model.

Sandy: What did you think of the Van Gogh art show?

Millie: I loved it! The technology used to present Van Gogh's art was amazing. It seemed that the birds in his paintings were really flying!

Sandy: Not just the birds, but everything! The flowers, water and people in the 3D pictures all seemed to be moving. What a sight!

Millie: Technology can bring so much new life to art.

Sandy: I agree. It's so interesting. I'm really glad we went to that art show.

Millie: Perhaps we should go to another art show together sometime.

Sandy: Sure!

D Mr Wu asked the Class 1, Grade 9 students to write an article about their favourite painter.

D1 Answer the questions below about a painter you like best.

1 Who is your favourite painter?

2 When and where does/did this painter live and work?

3 What is his or her painting style?

4 What does/did he or she often paint?

5 What is your favourite work by this painter?

D2

Read Sandy's article about her favourite painter.

My favourite painter

Introduction to the painter

The painter's experiences and painting style

Favourite work by the painter

My favourite painter is Xu Beihong, a Chinese painter born in 1895. He was an artist who was most famous in the first half of the 20th century.

Xu began studying painting when he was very young. He quickly became an expert at traditional Chinese painting. He also travelled a great deal and studied art in Japan and France. Studying art in the West had a big influence on him. He believed that traditional Chinese painting would lose some of its importance if painters stopped trying new methods. Therefore he became interested in creating new styles of art that mixed traditional Chinese and Western methods.

Xu often painted animals, especially horses and birds. My favourite painting of his is Ten Horses in Spring Mountains. I love the horses in this painting because they look so free and full of energy. If you like beautiful paintings of animals, you will certainly love Xu's works.

D3 Write an article about a painter you like best based on the information in Part D1. Use Sandy's article as a model.

Reading

A classic film star

Kitty's favourite film star is Audrey Hepburn. She has found an article about this famous actress in a magazine. Here is the article. Before reading, think about the questions below.

- 1 Who is your favourite film star? Why?
- 2 What do you know about Audrey Hepburn?

Audrey Hepburn: Hollywood's all-time best

Audrey Hepburn is one of Hollywood's all-time greatest actresses. When she died in 1993, the world felt very sad about the loss of a great beauty, a great actress and a great humanitarian.

- 5 Hepburn was born in Belgium on 4 May 1929. As a child, she loved dancing and dreamt of becoming a successful ballet dancer. After World War II, she moved to London with her mother. She worked as a model before becoming an actress.

- In 1951, while acting in France, Hepburn met the French
10 writer Colette. Hepburn's beauty and charm caught the writer's attention. Colette insisted that Hepburn was the perfect girl for the lead role in Gigi, a play based upon her novel, although Hepburn had never played any major roles before. That event marked the beginning of her successful 15 career.

Two years later, Hepburn was chosen to play the lead role of a young princess in the Hollywood film Roman Holiday. It was such a big success that Hepburn soon became world-famous. In 1954, she won the Oscar for Best Actress for her role in 20 this film.

In 1989, Hepburn made her final appearance in the film Always and played the role of an angel. During her lifetime, Hepburn appeared in almost 30 films and she received many important awards.

25 Hepburn's achievements went beyond the film industry. She began to work for UNICEF in the 1950s. She helped create radio programmes about children who lived through wars. In 1988, she visited Ethiopia for UNICEF and brought attention to the children there. Hepburn
30 spent her last few years working closely with UNICEF so that she could help poor children in different parts of the world. She won many awards because of 35 her charity work.

Hepburn discovered she had cancer in 1992. On 20 January 1993, she passed away peacefully in her sleep.

A Complete the timeline about Audrey Hepburn's life with the information in the article.

The timeline of events in Audrey Hepburn's life

- 1929 She was born.
- (1) _____ She met the French writer Colette.
- (2) _____ She won the Oscar for Best (3) _____.
- 1950s She began to work for UNICEF.
- (4) _____ She visited Ethiopia for UNICEF.
- (5) _____ She played her last film role.
- 1992 She discovered she had (6) _____.
- 1993 She passed away.

B Read the article again and answer the questions below.

1 What was Audrey Hepburn's dream as a child?

2 What was Audrey Hepburn's job before she became an actress?

3 What role did Audrey Hepburn play in the film Roman Holiday?

4 What group of people did Audrey Hepburn try to help while working with UNICEF?

Audrey Hepburn was one of Hollywood's greatest actresses.

She worked as a model at first. Later she began performing in a musical theatre and then had a few small ⁽¹⁾ _____ in films. In 1951, Colette, a famous French writer, was attracted by her beauty and ⁽²⁾ _____. She ⁽³⁾ _____ that Hepburn was the right person for her play Gigi. That was Hepburn's first ⁽⁴⁾ _____. The event marked the beginning of her successful ⁽⁵⁾ _____. She went on to star in a number of well-known films.

Hepburn ⁽⁶⁾ _____ World War II when she was young. Those terrible experiences during the war led her to become a humanitarian. In 1954, she began to work with UNICEF, providing aid to children in need. Later in life, Hepburn devoted much of her time to helping children. During her ⁽⁷⁾ _____, Hepburn won many awards, not only because of her excellent performance in films, but because of her tireless efforts in charity.

Hepburn ⁽⁸⁾ _____ in 1993, at the age of 63. Today, she is remembered as one of the greatest actresses of all time.

D Think about the questions below. Share your answers with your classmates.

- 1 Would you be interested in watching an Audrey Hepburn film? Give your reasons.
- 2 What qualities do you think great actors or actresses have?
- 3 After reading about Hepburn, which Chinese actor or actress comes into your mind? What qualities do you think they share?

Grammar

A Using although/though

Read the text below and pay attention to the use of although/though.

Colette insisted that Hepburn was the perfect girl for the lead role in her play, although Hepburn had never played any major roles before. Although this was Hepburn's first speaking role on stage, her performance was a great success. In 1954, Hepburn won an Oscar for her performance in Roman Holiday though it was only her second major role.

We use although/though to contrast two clauses. Although is more formal than though and is more common in writing than speech.

Millie: Do you like watching English films?

Kitty: Yes, though it can be challenging sometimes.

TIP We don't use although/though and but in one sentence.

We can give the same meaning using but.

Though Hepburn found out she had cancer in 1992, it didn't stop her from continuing her charity work.

= Hepburn found out she had cancer in 1992, but it didn't stop her from continuing her charity work.

We can use although/though _____ (at the beginning, in the middle, both at the beginning and in the middle) of a sentence to introduce a clause.

A1 Mr Wu went to see a film last Friday. However, he did not enjoy himself. Read the sentences below and find out why. Rewrite each pair of sentences into one sentence, using although/though.

1 I left early to avoid rush hour. There was a lot of traffic in the streets.

2 I could not find a space to park my car. The cinema had a big car park.

3 People kept coming in. The film had already been on for 15 minutes.

4 I felt very hot. I only had a T-shirt on.

5 A few people were talking loudly. They were told to keep quiet.

A2 Talk with your partner about a film-watching experience, using although/though.

B Using so ... that and such ... that

Read the sentences below and pay attention to the use of so ... that and such ... that.

The film is so great that I have watched it several times.

The actor worked so hard that he did not have a day off last year.

Millie is such a good storyteller that she can write exciting scripts.

It was such an exciting script that she read it through without stopping.

Work out
the rule!

We use so ... that or such ... that to emphasize the qualities or characteristics of somebody or something and show the result of it.

We use _____ or _____ between so and that; we use _____ between such and that.

a an adjective b an adverb c a noun phrase

B1 Shirley does not know who Audrey Hepburn was. Amy is telling her about Hepburn. Help Amy join each pair of her sentences with so ... that or such ... that.

- 1 Hepburn was beautiful. Many people were amazed by her beauty.

- 2 Hepburn was a kind lady. She spent her last few years working with UNICEF to help poor children all over the world.

- 3 Hepburn acted well. Some people mistook her for a real princess.

- 4 Hepburn was a great actress. She stole the show, even in a supporting role.

B2 Talk with your partner about an actor or actress, using so ... that and such ... that.

C Using so that

Read the text below and pay attention to the use of so that.

Hepburn worked very hard so that she could perform her roles well. But Hepburn was more than just an actress. She spent her last few years working closely with UNICEF so that she could help poor children in different parts of the world.

TIP We can also use in order that instead of so that to talk about the purpose of doing something.

We use _____ (so ... that, so that) to talk about the purpose of doing something. We use _____ (so ... that, so that) to talk about the result of something.

TIP We usually use can, will, could or may after so that.

C1 Simon is talking on the phone with Neil, his friend in the UK, about Chinese action films. Help Neil answer Simon's questions. Put the words in brackets in the correct order and make it a whole sentence with so that or so ... that.

Simon: Are you interested in Chinese action films?

Neil: Of course. ⁽¹⁾ _____ (I have watched/ more about Chinese kung fu/a lot of Chinese action films/I can learn).

Simon: Are you going to introduce Chinese kung fu to your friends in the UK?

Neil: Sure! ⁽²⁾ _____ (what Chinese kung fu is about/I will recommend some kung fu films/they will learn).

Simon: Have you learnt Chinese kung fu before?

Neil: Yes. ⁽³⁾ _____ (I could improve/my skills/I attended/a course on Chinese kung fu).

Simon: Who's your favourite actor in Chinese action films?

Neil: Bruce Lee. ⁽⁴⁾ _____ (he was handsome/ I have many pictures of him on the wall of my room).

Simon: He had an interesting life, didn't he?

Neil: Yes, he did. ⁽⁵⁾ _____ (his life was inspiring/many films were made about him).

C2 Write a short text about a film, a film-watching experience, or an actor or actress using although/though, so/such ... that and so that.

 On Saturday, I want to go to ⁽⁵⁾ _____ Cinema to see Road Trip to Shanghai. If I go on Saturday afternoon, the tickets are only ⁽⁶⁾ _____ yuan. I want to see this film because it is a comedy and I love this kind of film so much.
 I plan to go to the Olympic Cinema on Sunday. I'm going to watch a ⁽⁷⁾ _____ there called Tales of Old Beijing. It's quite long, but I think it will be worth it. The film looks at a ⁽⁸⁾ _____ who lives in a hutong. This is a ⁽⁹⁾ _____ choice for all ages.
 It will certainly be a great weekend!

B Kitty has found a flow chart describing the steps involved in making a film. Read the flow chart and answer the questions below.

Steps to make a film

- 1 What are the different jobs involved in making a film according to the chart?
- 2 Which step of making a film is the most interesting to you? Why?

C Kitty and Millie are talking about film-making tasks. Work in pairs and discuss what jobs you would like to do. Use the conversation below as a model.

Kitty: We're going to make a short video about our school. I really want to be involved!

Millie: What job would you like?

Kitty: I'd love to be an actress! Although I've never had an acting role before, I think I'd enjoy it. It must be fun to act as someone else and bring the character to life. What about you?

Millie: I love writing, so I think being a scriptwriter would be great. As a scriptwriter, I'll get to see my words come to life in the video.

Kitty: That does sound cool.

D Sunshine Middle School newsletter asked the students to hand in articles about their favourite films.

Kitty wrote an article about her favourite film. Read it below.

TIP A film review is mainly one's personal thoughts and feelings about the film.

Dangal

Introduction

One of the films that I like best is Dangal. It is a film set in India and based on a true story.

Plot

The film tells the story of a father who trains his daughters to become world-class wrestlers. When he was young, it was the father's dream to win a gold medal for India, but sadly he never achieved his goal. The daughters train so hard that they become amazing fighters. The elder daughter finally wins a gold medal.

Feelings

I love this film because the story is really funny and touching at the same time. I laughed many times when I was watching it. I also find it inspiring. This film teaches me a lot about working hard to achieve our dreams. It also reminds me of the importance of family. Hard work can lead to great results, especially when one gets support from one's family!

D3

Write an article about your favourite film based on the information in Part D1. Use Kitty's article as a model.

Unit 8

The world of literature

Literature is the textbook of human life.

In this unit,
we will

- 1 read a famous short story by O. Henry;
- 2 learn about different types of literature;
- 3 describe the literary works we like;
- 4 better understand the beauty and value of great literary works.

It is the Literature Week at Sunshine Middle School. Let's learn about different types of literature and create a piece of work of our own.

Welcome to the unit

Common types of literature

A The Class 1, Grade 9 students are learning about common types of literature. Listen to the introduction and match each type of literature with its correct example.

Type	Classic example
1 Play	a “The Waterfall in Mount Lushan Viewed from Afar” by Li Bai
2 Poem	b Hamlet by William Shakespeare
3 Novel	c “The Gift of the Magi” by O. Henry
4 Short story	d A Dream of Red Mansions by Cao Xueqin

B Millie and Kitty are talking about their favourite types of literature. Work in pairs and talk about your favourite types of literature. Use the conversation below as a model.

Millie: What type of literature do you like best, Kitty?

Kitty: I like short stories best because I can read them even when I’m busy. They’re not too long, but they still have interesting characters and exciting events.

Millie: That’s true. I like short stories too, but I think I like poems best.

Kitty: Why?

Millie: Poems often have lovely language.

Kitty: I like poems too, but sometimes I can’t understand them unless I read them again and again.

Millie: Yes, it’s often hard to understand a poem at first, but if you take your time, you’ll find the beauty in it.

C What challenges do you think are common when reading works of literature? Describe one.

Reading

TIP

A short story usually focuses on one event, has a single plot, a single setting, a limited number of characters and covers a short period of time.

The Last Leaf

Millie found a simplified short story by the famous American writer O. Henry. Here is the short story. Before reading, think about the questions below.

- 1 What are some of your favourite short stories?
- 2 Have you heard of O. Henry? What is he famous for?

The Last Leaf

"She has a very small chance," the doctor said to Sue. "If people don't want to live, I can't do much for them."

Johnsy lay there, very thin and very quiet, and burning with a fever.

"Eight, seven ..." Johnsy was counting, and a little later, "... six ..."

5 in a voice still lower. An old, old tree grew against the wall outside the window. Almost all its leaves had fallen from its dark branches.

"There goes another one. Only five are left now."

"Five what, dear?" asked Sue, as she moved to Johnsy's bedside.

"Leaves. On the tree. When the last leaf falls, I must go too."

10 "Oh! I never heard of such a thing," said Sue. There was anger in her voice. "It doesn't make any sense. What does an old tree have to do with you?" Johnsy did not answer.

"Try to eat a little now," said Sue. "I'll go and 15 get Behrman. I want him to be the model for my picture. After I sell my painting, I can buy more food to make you strong.”

Old Behrman, who lived on the first floor of their apartment building, was also a painter. He was over sixty. He had always talked 20 of painting a masterpiece, but he had yet to start it.

Sue told Old Behrman about Johnsy.

“She will die unless the last leaf stays on the tree?” Old Behrman cried. “Are there such fools? Do people die because leaves drop off a tree?”

25 After a night of beating rain and wild wind, there was still one dark green leaf left on the tree. “It is the last one. It will fall today,” said Johnsy, “and I shall die at the same time.”

The next morning, the leaf was still there.

“Something has made that last leaf stay there to show me how 30 wrong I was,” said Johnsy. “It is wrong to want to die.”

Johnsy was getting better.

The next day Sue told Johnsy, “Mr Behrman died. He was ill because of being out in the cold all night. Look at the last leaf. Didn’t you ever wonder why it never moved when the wind was blowing? It’s 35 Behrman’s masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell.”

A surprise ending can change the readers’ view of an entire story and allow them to enjoy the details of it in a new light. This often makes the story last longer in the readers’ memory.

A Put the events in the story in the correct order. Write the numbers (1–7) in the boxes on the left.

- ☐ a Johnsy heard that Behrman died.
- ☐ b Johnsy got sick.
- ☐ c The doctor worried that Johnsy didn't want to live.
- ☐ d Sue discussed Johnsy's sickness with Behrman.
- ☐ e Johnsy started counting leaves.
- ☐ f Behrman painted a leaf on the wall.
- ☐ g Johnsy started getting well.

B Read the short story again. Write a T if a sentence is true or an F if it is false. Then correct the false one(s).

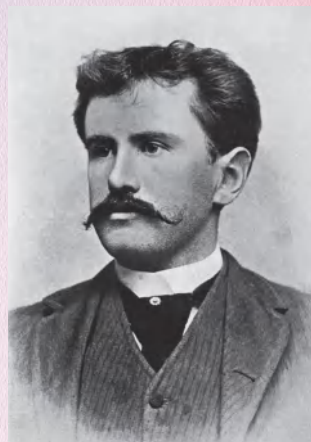

- 1 Sue, Johnsy and Mr Behrman lived in the same building. _____
- 2 Sue and Johnsy were both sick. _____
- 3 Johnsy thought she would die when the last leaf fell from the tree. _____
- 4 Behrman was also a young painter. _____
- 5 Behrman got the disease from Johnsy. _____
- 6 Sue did not know who painted the leaf on the wall in the end. _____

C Millie is writing an article about O. Henry. Complete the article with the correct forms of the words and phrases in the box.

drop off	beating	chance	have something to do with lie	make sense	masterpiece	out in the cold

If you like short stories, there is a ⁽¹⁾ _____ that you have read one of O. Henry's.

Everyday life was one of O. Henry's favourite subjects. Many of his works ⁽²⁾ _____ daily life in New York. One of his most famous stories, "The Last Leaf", is a touching story about three artists living in New York.

In this story, Johnsy and Sue are two best friends who share the same hobbies. Johnsy is sick and she tells Sue that she will die when the last leaf ⁽³⁾ _____ the tree outside their window. The leaf remains there after a night of ⁽⁴⁾ _____ rain and wild wind. Old Behrman, another artist, dies because he gets sick after he paints the leaf for Johnsy ⁽⁵⁾ _____. Like many of O. Henry's short stories, the charm of "The Last Leaf" ⁽⁶⁾ _____ in its surprise ending. In "The Last Leaf", there are parts of the story that ⁽⁷⁾ _____ only when we know the ending.

I like "The Last Leaf" because it reminds us of the importance of having hope. It does not matter whether that hope is to paint a ⁽⁸⁾ _____ or just stay alive.

D Think about the questions below. Share your answers with your classmates.

- 1 What are the personalities of the three characters in the story?
- 2 What was Behrman's dream? Do you think his dream came true?
- 3 What impressed you most in the story? Why?

Grammar

A Using if

Read the sentences in the table below and pay attention to the use of if.

If-clause	Main clause
If you like short stories,	you will love O. Henry, who wrote over 600 short stories in his life.
If you want to read a story with a surprise ending,	you should try an O. Henry story.
If you need to find his books,	you can ask the librarian where they are.

We often use if to talk about the result of a possible action or condition. We often use the simple _____ (future, present) tense in the if-clause and _____ (modal verb, linking verb) in the main clause. We need a _____ (comma, full stop) after the if-clause when it is the first part of a sentence.

A1 Millie is reading some tips for new writers. Help her fill in the blanks with the correct forms of the words in brackets. Add should, can or will where necessary.

Useful tips to help you get started on your writing journey:

- If you ⁽¹⁾ _____ (want) to be a writer, you ⁽²⁾ _____ (read) widely and often.
- You ⁽³⁾ _____ (improve) your writing skills over time if you ⁽⁴⁾ _____ (write) every day.
- If you ⁽⁵⁾ _____ (not put in) time and energy, it ⁽⁶⁾ _____ (be) difficult to see progress.
- You ⁽⁷⁾ _____ (ask) someone for help if you ⁽⁸⁾ _____ (not know) how to start your story.
- If you ⁽⁹⁾ _____ (not want) your readers to get bored, you ⁽¹⁰⁾ _____ (include) action in your story.

A2 Talk with your partner about a story or a writer you are familiar with, using if-clauses.

B Using unless

Read the text below and pay attention to the use of unless.

In literature, writers use words as artists use paints. Sometimes it can be hard to fully enjoy good literature unless you read it carefully. Poems, for example, are often difficult to understand. Unless you read a poem again and again, you may not understand the true meaning of it.

- We can use unless to say that something can only happen or be true in a particular situation.
- The unless-clause can come _____ (only before, only after, before or after) the main clause.

Sometimes we can use if ... not to replace unless.

You won't know what happens unless you read to the end of the story.

= You won't know what happens if you don't read to the end of the story.

Unless you love science fiction, you won't like this book.

= If you don't love science fiction, you won't like this book.

B1 Millie is writing about reading and writing poetry. Help her rewrite the sentences using unless.

- 1 If you don't try reading poetry, you may not realize how much you enjoy the art form.

- 2 If you never read poetry, you may miss out on the beauty and power of language.

- 3 If you don't take your time reading a poem, you may not understand it fully.

- 4 You will never know whether you like the poet if you don't read his work.

- 5 You won't know whether you can write a poem if you don't try.

- 6 If you don't put in time and energy, it will be difficult to write beautiful poetry.

B2 Millie is sharing her notes about a writing class. The first part of each sentence is given. Choose the correct second part from the box below.

- | | |
|---|-------|
| 1 Unless we run out of time, | _____ |
| 2 The class will start at 10 a.m. | _____ |
| 3 The teacher will help you come up with a story idea | _____ |
| 4 Unless you finish writing your story, | _____ |
| 5 Unless you are interested in writing, | _____ |
| 6 You will be given a pencil and some writing paper | _____ |

- a unless the teacher changes the start time.
- b the teacher won't read it.
- c we will all get to read our stories out loud at the end of the class.
- d you will not like the class.
- e unless you bring your own.
- f unless you already have an idea for a story.

B3 Amy is inviting Millie to the Sunshine Book Fair. Complete their conversation using if or unless in each blank.

Amy: There's a book fair in town this week. ⁽¹⁾ _____ you're interested, we could go together.

Millie: Sure, I'd love to. We could go tomorrow morning ⁽²⁾ _____ you already have plans.

Amy: Tomorrow morning is perfect! But ⁽³⁾ _____ we want to go, we should get there early. The book fair is very popular. ⁽⁴⁾ _____ we arrive early, there may not be many books left!

Millie: OK, let's go as soon as it opens.

Amy: Great! Do you want to have lunch together too? There's a nice park nearby. We could eat lunch there ⁽⁵⁾ _____ it rains.

Millie: Sure. And ⁽⁶⁾ _____ it rains, we can eat at a restaurant instead.

Amy: Sounds like a plan.

Millie: Should we invite Sandy to join us? I know that she loves books. She'll certainly want to come ⁽⁷⁾ _____ she's not busy.

Amy: Of course! Let's invite her.

B4 You are invited to introduce a book or writer to your class. Please write a short text, using if- and unless-clauses.

Exploring great literature

A A play has several parts that are not found in other types of literature. Mr Wu is showing an excerpt from a play. Read the excerpt and answer the questions below.

Usually a play contains several "acts".

Each act is divided into several scenes.

The setting usually shows when and where each scene happens.

Words in brackets describe characters' actions.

This is what the characters are saying to each other.

SCENE 1

King Lear's palace

[King Lear is seated on his throne. His three daughters stand before him.]

King Lear: Tell me, my daughters,
Which of you loves me most?
Goneril, my eldest, speak first.

Goneril: Sir, I love you more than words can say;
A love that makes breath poor, and speech unable.
More than anything, I love you.

King Lear: I give you so much of all my lands, from here to there,
With dark forests and open fields.
What says my second daughter,
My dearest Regan. Speak.

Regan: Sir, in my true heart
I find my sister describes my love for you,
Only she comes too short.
All other joys are my enemy
Except for your dear love.

King Lear: To you, I give a third of my lands,
No less than I gave to Goneril.
Now, Cordelia, what can you say to get
More than your sisters? Speak.

Cordelia: Nothing, my lord.

King Lear: Nothing will come of nothing. Speak again.

Cordelia: I love you according to my duty,
Nor more nor less.

- 1 What does King Lear give to his two elder daughters?
- 2 Do you find plays more difficult to read than novels? Explain.

B1 Mr Wu is giving a lecture on nature and literature. Listen to the lecture and match each writer to the correct description.

- | | |
|-----------------------|--|
| 1 Zhu Ziqing | a His writings show respect for the power of nature. |
| 2 Henry David Thoreau | b His writings are full of strong feelings and images of nature. |
| 3 William Wordsworth | c One of his books is about the importance of nature in our lives. |

B2 Millie is talking to Mr Wu about literature. Listen to their conversation and complete the notes below.

What makes a good piece of literature

- It describes ⁽¹⁾ _____ that are common to everyone.
Example: Romeo and Juliet by William Shakespeare
- It is an art form of ⁽²⁾ _____.
Example: ⁽³⁾ _____ by Ernest Hemingway
- It lasts a long time.
Example: poems of Li Bai and Du Fu, who lived in the ⁽⁴⁾ _____

B3

Millie is writing about what she has learnt about literature. Complete her notes below with the information in Parts B1 and B2.

Today I learnt that many writers talk about nature in their writing. Zhu Ziqing, a Chinese writer, often wrote about nature. He was such a ⁽¹⁾ _____ of language, and he could easily create beautiful images in nature in his unique style.

Henry David Thoreau, a writer from ⁽²⁾ _____, also wrote about nature. He once lived in a ⁽³⁾ _____ and wrote his famous book Walden there. The book shows how important nature is for people.

There is also William Wordsworth, a(n) ⁽⁴⁾ _____ poet. His poems show the readers his respect for the power of the natural world.

I also learnt about the qualities that good literature should have. Good literature is about ⁽⁵⁾ _____ that everyone understands. In good literature, writers should use ⁽⁶⁾ _____ as a tool to show their thoughts and feelings. Finally, good literature has lasting values. Li Bai's and Du Fu's poems are good examples.

C Millie, Sandy and Daniel are talking about books that have impressed them. Work in groups and discuss a book that has impressed you a lot. Use the conversation below as a model.

Millie: Are there any books that have impressed you?

Sandy: Sure. The novel The Border Town by Shen Congwen has impressed me a lot. It is about a beautiful town and the warm-hearted people who live there. I like the local colour in the novel most.

Millie: What about you, Daniel?

Daniel: I love Charles Dickens's novel Great Expectations. It's a great book. It teaches me that real happiness comes not from wealth but from treating others with kindness.

Sandy: And you, Millie?

Millie: The book that has influenced me the most is Jane Eyre by Charlotte Brontë. It tells a story about love, loss and personal growth. It makes me want to write novels myself!

D The Book Club at Sunshine Middle School invited students to write short plays for students to perform during the Literature Week.

D1 Millie is writing an outline for her play. Read it and then add some ideas to the story.

Background

- Julie is 13 years old.
- Her family recently moved to a new city because her father got a new job there.
- Julie is very shy and hasn't made any friends yet.

Plot

- Julie doesn't want to go to school because she doesn't have any friends at her new school.
- Julie's neighbour and classmate, Emily, shows up at the door.
- _____
- _____

D2 Read the first scene in Millie's play script.

Act 1, Scene 1

Julie's bedroom

[Julie is looking at herself in a mirror. There's a knock at the door, and Julie's mum enters.]

Mum: Hurry up, Julie, or you'll be late for school.

Julie: I don't want to go to school today, Mum.

Mum: What's the matter? Don't you feel well?

Julie: I don't like my new school. I haven't made any friends yet. I haven't met anyone who likes me. I miss my old school and my old friends. Why did we have to move here?

Mum: You know why, Julie. Your father got a wonderful new job here. It will be a little difficult at first, but I'm sure you'll get used to life in this city.

[The doorbell rings. Julie's mum goes to open the door. At the door is Emily, their neighbour and Julie's classmate.]

...

To write a good play, you should:

- catch your readers' attention in the first few lines;
- describe what happens and what the characters do, and pay attention to the turning points;
- make your readers see what your characters are like by their appearances, actions and speech;
- write meaningful dialogues;
- choose two or more scenes for your play;
- create a conflict to make your play interesting.

D3 Help Millie continue her play script. Write the next scene of her play. Use your ideas in Part D1 to help you.

Useful expressions

My mum thinks that ...

I miss my old home because ...

What I miss most about my old home is ...

Have you been to our city's park/swimming pool/cinema/tea shop/...?

Can I show you around the city?

Cao Yu (1910–1996) is considered one of China's greatest modern playwrights. He made significant contributions to modern Chinese drama. His plays are famous for their powerful themes, lifelike characters and explorations of social issues. His best-known works are Thunderstorm, Sunrise and Peking Man. Read one and share your thoughts with your classmates.

Project 2

A video about an art form

The Class 1, Grade 9 students are making videos about different art forms. Your class wants to do the same thing.

A Plan

- 1 Work in groups of four. Discuss major art forms and choose a specific art form such as classical music, landscape painting or poetry. Use the table below to help you.

Music	Calligraphy	Painting	Film	Literature
Classical music	Zhuanshu	Portrait	Documentary	Poetry
Folk	Lishu	Landscape	Comedy	Novel
Pop	Kaishu	Birds and flowers	Science fiction	Play
Rock	Xingshu	...	Cartoon	Short story
...	...		...	...

- 2 Discuss and decide what to include in your video. Use the internet and the library to find information. You can get some ideas from the list below.

- What is the history of Chinese landscape painting?
- What are the common themes in Chinese landscape painting?
- Who are some of the most famous Chinese landscape painters?
- What techniques are used in Chinese landscape painting?
- What is the importance of nature in Chinese culture and how does it influence Chinese landscape painting?
- What materials and tools are normally used in creating Chinese landscape paintings?
- How can one enjoy and interpret Chinese landscape paintings?

B Make

- 1 Write the script for your video. Check your writing carefully.
- 2 Find images or video clips online to illustrate your content.
- 3 Use video editing software to trim your materials. Join the images and clips together according to the script.

Wang Wei lived during the Tang Dynasty. He was known for his naturalistic painting style. He often painted landscapes in great detail such as trees, rocks, mountains and rivers, creating a sense of depth and realism.

Wang Wei's Wangchuan Villa is one of the most famous artworks of the Tang Dynasty. It shows a peaceful scene of a villa by a riverbank. The painting shows the natural beauty of the mountains in the distance, the trees, flowers and the flowing river. It uses a mix of detailed and gentle brushwork and invites the viewer to take a moment to enjoy the peacefulness of the natural world.

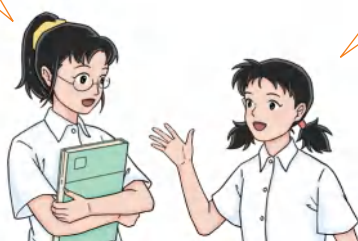

- 4 Record the script and add the audio to your video. Or add captions to the video content.
- 5 Include background music to add to the mood of your video.

C Share

- 1 Show your video to the class.
- 2 Share what you like about others' videos.

I love the video of Simon's group introducing fantasy films. The clip of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory is great fun to watch.

Me too. I really want to know if Charlie wins in the end.

B2 Work in pairs and discuss the qualities the people in B1 need to be successful in their jobs. Use the example below to help you.

- A: What qualities do you think Mr He needs as a social worker?
- B: I think social workers must be warm-hearted. Every day, they meet different people and deal with their problems.
- A: Yes. To be successful in their jobs, social workers must be friendly to people. What about Mrs Tan, the lawyer?
- B: It took her many years of effort to become a lawyer. I believe she is a hard-working person. It's a must-have quality of a good lawyer.
- A: That's true. First, they have to work very hard to graduate from university. Then, they have to put in long hours at work.
- B: Exactly. Now let's talk about Mr Hu. He's a doctor. He has a strong interest in science. That's important for doctors.
- A: Yes, and they should also like caring about others.

C Personalities and jobs

C1 David is reading an article about Michelangelo, a great artist. Read it with him and complete the chart below.

Michelangelo, a great artist

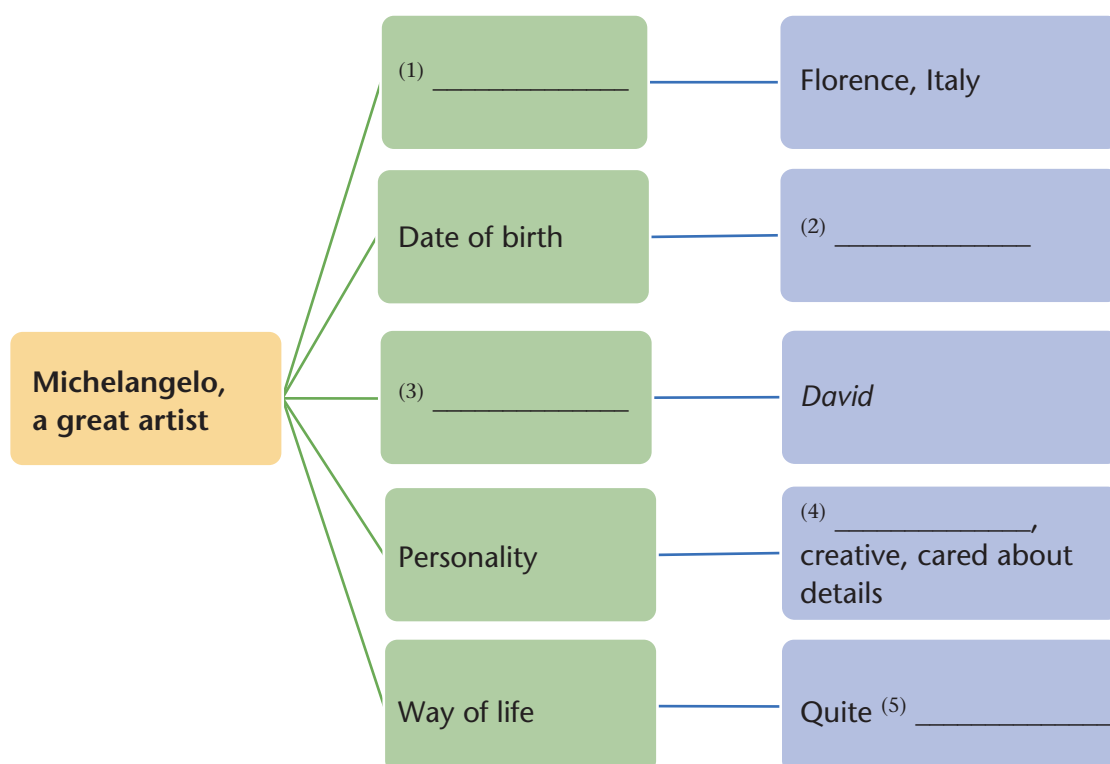

Michelangelo was one of the greatest artists in the world. His most famous sculpture, David, is thought to be one of the greatest works of art.

Michelangelo was born in Florence, Italy, on 6 March 1475. When he was six, his mother died. Then Michelangelo lived with his nanny and her husband, a stonecutter. This led to his love of marble and statues.

Michelangelo was very imaginative and creative. He cared about the small details of things. This certainly helped him produce beautiful art. Many of his works show the strong will and power of human beings.

Though he was one of the most successful artists of his time, Michelangelo lived a simple life. He spent most of his time on his work. Sometimes he only had a meal of a few pieces of bread. "However rich I may have been, I have always lived like a poor man," he once said.

B How to get advice on teenage problems

B1 Nora is listening to an introduction to a website called YouthWell. Listen to the introduction and choose the correct web pages for the problems. Write the correct letters in the blanks below.

- a "Common concerns" page
c "Chatroom" page

- b "Skills to build" page
d "TeenLine" page

- If you are stressed out and want to talk to someone, you can visit the _____.
- If you have a problem with a friend and want to share your feelings with other teens, visit the _____.
- If you want more information about a parent-teen problem, you may find articles on the _____.
- If you are looking for ways to have better self-confidence, you should check out the _____.

B2 Work in pairs and talk about where to get advice on teenage problems. Use the example below to help you.

- A: The YouthWell website offers fantastic information to teens. It's great that we can get advice about common problems online.
- B: That's true, but we should also be careful. We need to make sure we're visiting safe websites.
- A: Yes. I often ask my parents and teachers to recommend websites.
- B: Great! I ask them for help too, especially when I'm stressed out. They can always give me good advice.
- A: I agree. Sometimes, I share my problems with friends. They know me well, so it's easy to communicate with them.
- B: Good point. We can also get advice from books. Our school library is full of books with helpful information about teenage problems.
- A: True. It's good to have many ways to get support when we need it.

C Problems and advice

C1 Nora found some emails from parents on the YouthWell website. Read the emails with her and answer the questions below.

My name is Mark. I have a 14-year-old son, Carl. He is a great football player and he is now captain of the school team. I am very proud of him. However, I think he spends too much time playing football and not enough time studying. How can I make him understand that both football and schoolwork are important? Please give me some advice.

I am Emily. My daughter Kristy is 15. She spends a lot of time outside. After school, she often goes to her friends' homes. She seldom brings her friends home, so I am not familiar with them. I want to give Kristy enough space, but I also want to be sure that she is safe and has completed all her homework. What should I do?

I am Karen. My son is 15 years old. He is very clever. He always spends lots of time on his studies and gets top marks at school. However, he is always alone. He does not have any friends. In his free time, he reads books or plays on the computer. I think it is important for young people to have friends. How can I help him make friends?

1 Why does Carl not spend enough time studying?

2 What advice does Mark want?

3 What two things does Emily want?

4 What does Karen's son do in his free time?

5 What does Karen think is important?

6 What is the aim of the emails from the three parents?

7 Which of the teenage problems in the emails have you met? How did you solve it?

C2 Nora wants to write a response email to one of the parents in C1. Help her complete the email. Try to give as much advice as possible.

B2 Work in pairs and talk about your role models. Discuss what you admire about these people. Use the example below to help you.

A: Who's your role model?

B: My role model is Yang Liwei. In 2003, he became the first Chinese person to go to space. It took him so much hard work and many years to train for the journey.

A: True. I admire him too.

B: Do you have a role model?

A: My aunt is my role model. She's a doctor. She has saved so many people's lives. Sometimes she feels terrible because she has to watch people suffer. But she never considers giving up. She knows people are counting on her.

B: She sounds like an amazing person.

A: She is. I hope to be just like her one day.

C The Boy Who Harnessed the Wind

C1 Nora is reading a magazine article about a book called The Boy Who Harnessed the Wind. Read it with her and put the events below in the correct order. Write the numbers 1–6 in the boxes.

The Boy Who Harnessed the Wind is a story about a boy named William from a very poor country in Africa. He loved learning and had a goal to study science.

One year, William's country suffered a serious drought. This destroyed crops and many families didn't have enough food to eat. Life became very difficult for William's family too. They were too poor to send him to high school. However, William didn't give up. He borrowed some books from the local library and taught himself physics.

William dreamt of building a windmill to create electricity to help his family and the community. He collected old materials to build the windmill. Many people in his village thought he was crazy, but that didn't stop him. It took many months of hard work, and finally, the windmill worked. It produced electricity.

William's windmill attracted attention from people at home and abroad. He was invited to big events to talk about his experience and success. Later, William was accepted to a college to further his education.

- ☐ a William built a windmill to create electricity.
- ☐ b He was invited to talk about his experience and success.
- ☐ c William learnt physics by himself.
- ☐ d William's family was too poor to send him to high school.
- ☐ e William went to college to further his education.
- ☐ f William's country suffered a serious drought.

C2 What do you think of the book The Boy Who Harnessed the Wind? Read the reader reviews of the book. Write an article about what you think of the story with the help of the reviews.

John Li

A wonderful book about how dreams and hard work can turn even the most difficult situations into success stories. William has a positive attitude, and he never gives up hope. I want to be like him.

Mary Wang

William was always a curious child. Although he had to drop out, he tried to keep up by going to the library and reading everything he could.

Sam Jiang

It is hard to imagine what life was like for William. He wanted to improve the conditions in his village. In the beginning, many villagers didn't believe he could do it, but William was confident, and he succeeded in the end.

Unit 4 Life is beautiful

A The power of life

A1 Nora is writing about amazing Arctic animals and plants. Complete her sentences with the correct words. The first letter of each word is given.

All along the way, I also see bears ⁽³⁾ _____ (hunt) for fish! I know they are very ⁽⁴⁾ _____ (interest) in eating me! By the end of my trip, I lay my eggs and then die.

I'm an emperor penguin. ⁽⁵⁾ _____ (live) in Antarctica is tough. The temperature alone is a big challenge. It's ⁽⁶⁾ _____ (freeze) down here! In the autumn, my wife lays an egg and goes away for two months. I stay behind on the ice to look after our egg. During the winter, we men have to stay close together for warmth. ⁽⁷⁾ _____ (keep) the eggs warm is our job. We also help the babies make their way out of the eggs and then feed them. While my wife is away, I almost don't eat. It's great when I see her ⁽⁸⁾ _____ (return) from the sea!

A3 David is reading an article about the red willow plant. Read with him and complete the article with the correct forms of the verbs in brackets.

In the Taklimakan Desert in north-west China, the small pink flowers of the red willow blow gently in the wind. The desert is very dry. ⁽¹⁾ _____ (survive) in the desert isn't easy, but the red willow has found a way.

The red willow's long roots can get to water deep below the surface of the desert. But survival is not just about ⁽²⁾ _____ (find) water. ⁽³⁾ _____ (prevent) water loss is another big challenge. The red willow's leaves are small and thin. They are good at ⁽⁴⁾ _____ (keep) water.

The red willow's deep roots are useful for ⁽⁵⁾ _____ (hold) sand in place. Desert control experts were ⁽⁶⁾ _____ (excite) to discover this. They planted red willows around the edges of the desert and they were quite ⁽⁷⁾ _____ (satisfy) with the result! Red willows are now a big part of China's desert control programme.

B Meaning of life

B1 Nora is listening to a podcast about people with touching stories. Listen with her and fill in the blanks below.

Wang Shunyou

Wang Shunyou was a ⁽¹⁾ _____. He delivered mail to areas deep in the mountains of Sichuan Province. His work helped people there communicate with the ⁽²⁾ _____. Over the years, he never missed a delivery.

Bai Fangli

Bai Fangli earned his money by driving a pedicab. He wasn't ⁽³⁾ _____, but he was very generous. For almost 20 years, he donated money to help more than 300 poor ⁽⁴⁾ _____ continue their studies.

Chen Beier

Chen Beier is a ⁽⁵⁾ _____. To make the documentary No Poverty Land, she spent ⁽⁶⁾ _____ interviewing people in some poor areas. Her work helped us better understand the lives of the people there and the government's efforts to end poverty.

B2 Whose story from B1 touches you most? Work in pairs and discuss the person and his or her story. Use the example below to help you.

- A: I'm most touched by the story of Bai Fangli. I can't believe he donated so much money to poor students.
- B: And for so many years! He's a hero, if you ask me.
- A: His story is especially touching because he didn't have much money himself. His spirit encourages me to help other people too.
- B: That's great to hear.
- A: What about you? Which story do you think is most touching?
- B: I feel encouraged by Wang Shunyou's story.
- A: Why is that?
- B: Delivering mail in mountain areas is not easy. But he knew that people were counting on him. He didn't want to let anyone down!
- A: That's such an excellent quality!

C Find meaning in your life

C1 Nora is reading a poem about what life is. Read it with her and answer the questions.

Find meaning in your life

Life may be short, but dreams are long,
Reaching high in the sky, as far as we can see.
Follow your heart and never give up.
You can be anything that you want to be.

Share your gift with the world,
And give back to those in need.
Find meaning in your life,
Wherever it may lead.

Create and explore, build and make,
Believe that you can do great things.
Never stop learning or trying to be good.
You are the future, whatever that brings.

Work hard for what you want in life,
And you will meet your goal.
Do not let doubt cloud your way.
Be strong, be you, every day.

1 How many parts does the poem have?

2 What are the words that rhyme in the poem?

3 How do you understand the lines "Follow your heart and never give up./You can be anything that you want to be."?

4 How can we find meaning in our life? Write at least three ways the poem mentions.

C2 What do you think of the poem? Write a review of the poem. Use the notes below to help you.

I like this poem because it teaches us a lot about life.

The first part encourages us to have big dreams and follow our hearts.

We can have a meaningful life if we help people in need.

We should always try to improve ourselves.

Never doubt ourselves and be true to who we are.

SUBJECT

Music

Hi David,

How have you been recently?

I’m listening to a song named “You Are My Sunshine”. Have you heard of it? It’s a simple but heart-warming country song. Here in the UK, we often hear the song. My parents always sang it to me when I was younger. The song was written in the 1930s, but people still enjoy it today. In fact, it has been recorded in more than 30 languages. Can you believe that?

Do you know much about country music? It’s a great style of music. It started in the southern parts of the USA, but it’s quite popular here in the UK too. Country songs often tell simple stories. That’s why I love them. String instruments, like the guitar, banjo and fiddle, are popular in country music. Those are some of my favourite instruments!

If you want to know more about country music, let me know! And maybe you can tell me about Chinese music. Could you recommend a piece of Chinese music to me?

Cheers,

Emily

SEND

1 Who used to sing "You Are My Sunshine" to Emily?

2 When was "You Are My Sunshine" written?

3 Where did country music start?

4 What instruments are popular in country music?

5 What does Emily ask David to do at the end of her email?

6 Which piece of Chinese music would you recommend to Emily?

C2 David wants to introduce Emily to a piece of Chinese music, Ambush from Ten Sides. Read the notes of the piece of music below. Then, help David write an email to Emily.

C Talk about art

C1 Sandy is reading an article by an art expert. Read with her and choose the correct sentences in the box below to complete the script. Write the correct letters in the blanks.

I am sure you know there are many different art styles and subjects. An artist might choose to use a brush, a pencil, paint or something else to create art. ⁽¹⁾ _____ Some artists spend their life trying to paint different kinds of things, such as landscapes, buildings, people or animals. ⁽²⁾ _____ Xu Beihong, for example, was famous for painting horses.

What makes good art then? ⁽³⁾ _____ You may feel as if you were in that place. If you look at a painting of a beach and can imagine the feeling of sand under your feet and the smell of the ocean air, I think the artist has been successful. There are many paintings of people, but the best will make you think and want to know more about the person in the painting. ⁽⁴⁾ _____ For example, Edward Hopper was good at using light and darkness to show how lonely and strange the world could make one feel. ⁽⁵⁾ _____

- a A good landscape painting should give you a sense of place.
- b Some artists also want you to think differently about daily life.
- c In conclusion, whatever the art is about, it should make you think when you look at it.
- d For example, Edward Munch liked to use a knife to make pictures in pieces of wood.
- e However, some are especially good at painting certain subjects.

C2 Look at the fact file about the painting Girl with a Pearl Earring. Write an article about the painting and what you think of it.

Title: Girl with a Pearl Earring

A large pearl earring

Features: Much detail;
A lot of mystery

Unit 7 The big screen

A The beauty of film

A1 Nora is reading an article about making a good film. Complete the article with the correct words. The first letter of each word is given.

What makes a good film? It is not simple to answer. A good film involves so many different things.

First, the scriptwriter must write a good story so that audiences could ⁽¹⁾ d_____ something interesting along the way.

Second, a good film also needs a great ⁽²⁾ d_____ to lead the project. This is a ⁽³⁾ m_____ role in making a film.

Next, the director chooses great ⁽⁴⁾ a_____ and actresses. These people have to breathe life into their roles. Otherwise, audiences will not care about the characters.

It is also important to have a skilled crew to ⁽⁵⁾ s_____ the film. This includes camera people, set designers and more. Once the ⁽⁶⁾ f_____ is over, editors, sound designers and many others are needed to put it all together and add music and special effects.

A2 David is reading an article about camera people. Read with him and complete the article using although, though, so ... that, so that or such ... that and the expressions in brackets.

Camera people play an important part in film-making. ⁽¹⁾ _____ (camerawork is important/it can make or break a film). Skilled camerawork can create beauty and emotion in a film while unskilled camerawork can make a film fall flat. ⁽²⁾ _____ (the camera team is central to a film's success/we often don't think much about it).

The camera people work closely with the film's director. The director usually has ideas about how things should look, and the camera people must find ways to achieve these goals. Working with the lighting team is another key part of their job. ⁽³⁾ _____ (the mood of each scene is exactly right/the lighting team and camera team work together).

When it comes to film-making, we often think about actors and directors. But ⁽⁴⁾ _____ (we should think about camerawork a lot more/camerawork plays a big role in film-making). Without these hard-working people, there would be no films at all.

A3 Nora is writing about different stages in the history of film. Help her complete the text using although, though, so ... that, so that or such ... that.

- Silent films: Silent films first appeared in the late 19th century. They told stories without using words. These films are called "silent films" ⁽¹⁾ _____ they often included music.
- Sound films: In the late 1920s, sound films began to appear in cinemas ⁽²⁾ _____ people could hear the actors while watching them move on the screen. ⁽³⁾ _____ actors could talk in sound films, most of these films still did not have any colours.
- Colour films: Several new technologies helped make films more colourful. This was ⁽⁴⁾ _____ an exciting addition _____ people became more interested in cinema than ever!
- Wide-screen films: In the 1950s, wide-screen films became popular. Directors used wide-screen technology ⁽⁵⁾ _____ they could create wider and more beautiful landscapes.
- Digital films: Digital films, like Toy Story, hit the scene in the 1990s. Digital technology was ⁽⁶⁾ _____ new _____ audiences were blown away by it. In this period, film-makers were using computers ⁽⁷⁾ _____ they could create amazing visual effects.
- 3D films: 3D films became popular in the 2010s. The audience started going to 3D films ⁽⁸⁾ _____ they could check out the exciting new technology.

B Cartoon films

B1 Nora is talking with David about Disney films. Listen to their conversation and complete the notes below.

- 1 Walt Disney was born in _____.
- 2 He started his company with his brother in _____.
- 3 The Disney cartoon character Mickey Mouse was created in _____.
- 4 Steamboat Willie was the first cartoon with _____. It is _____ long.
- 5 Both The Lion King and Frozen are exciting and have _____ music.

B2 Work in pairs and talk about your favourite cartoon film. Use the example below to help you.

A: Do you have a favourite cartoon film?

B: There are so many great cartoons that it's hard to pick a favourite. But I really love Monkey King: Hero Is Back.

A: What do you like about it?

B: I like its story. And I love watching the friendships between some of the main characters. The film is about the importance of friendship and working together.

A: Monkey King is a great film. But my favourite cartoon is Frozen. I love the characters. They have deep love for each other! And the scenes in the film look cool.

B: I agree. It's such a joy to watch.

C The making of a film

C1 David wants to know about the making of a film. He has found an interview with a film maker in a magazine. Read it with him and complete the chart below.

Interviewer: Hello. Perhaps you could tell us a little about your job as a film maker?

Film maker: Sure. I'm involved in all stages of making a film—from the first idea to the shooting of the film and finally the showing of the film in cinemas.

Interviewer: Could you tell us what you mean by "the shooting of the film"?

Film maker: This is when the camera people film the actors and actresses.

Interviewer: Oh, I see.

Film maker: Many people think shooting the film is the most important part of film-making. However, this is only the beginning.

Interviewer: Really? What happens next?

Film maker: When the film crew goes home, the pieces of film are edited and the music is added. Sometimes actors and actresses have to re-record lines that aren't clear enough.

Interviewer: And how long does all this take?

Film maker: Usually, these things take longer than the actual shooting of the film. They can take several months to complete.

Stages of ⁽¹⁾ _____

First idea of the film

⁽²⁾ _____: the camera people film the

⁽³⁾ _____

Editing of the film: add ⁽⁴⁾ _____, sometimes re-record lines that are ⁽⁵⁾ _____

Showing of the film

Unit 8 The world of literature

A Great works of literature

A1 Nora is writing about three great works of literature. Complete her text with the correct words. The first letter of each word is given.

Romeo and Juliet by William Shakespeare is one of the world's most famous plays. It is a sad love story about a young woman and a young man whose families are ⁽¹⁾ e_____. In the final scene, both Romeo and Juliet die. Like many of Shakespeare's plays, this one has five ⁽²⁾ a_____.

Jane Austen's ⁽³⁾ w_____ are quite interesting. Her novel, Pride and Prejudice, is a wonderful romance. In this novel, she held up a ⁽⁴⁾ m_____ to society and encouraged people to see themselves in new ways.

The Road Not Taken is a poem by the American writer Robert Frost. It is one of his ⁽⁵⁾ m_____. The poem is all about the decisions that we make in life. It is still ⁽⁶⁾ w_____ read today.

A2 Mr Wu is introducing the Four Great Classic Novels of Chinese literature to students. Complete the speech script with if or unless and the expressions in the box below.

you read this book you read them all carefully you love exciting adventures you understand love, family and social pressure you want a story about friendship and getting over challenges

Today we're talking about some great novels of Chinese literature.

The first novel is Romance of the Three Kingdoms. You'll understand the Three Kingdoms period in China better ⁽¹⁾ _____.

The second one is Journey to the West. ⁽²⁾ _____, this novel is for you! It's one of the best adventure stories in Chinese literature.

Water Margin is another great novel. ⁽³⁾ _____, Water Margin is a must-read.

Finally, we have A Dream of Red Mansions. In some ways, it's a difficult novel to read. ⁽⁴⁾ _____, you may not get this book's meaning.

All of these books are great, but they're not always easy to understand. You won't enjoy them ⁽⁵⁾ _____.

A3 Nora is writing an article about Journey to the West. Read it and complete the article with the correct forms of the verbs in brackets.

A look at Journey to the West

If you ⁽¹⁾ _____ (enjoy) adventure stories, you ⁽²⁾ _____ (love) Journey to the West. The main character is Tang Seng. He, along with three followers, travels to ancient India for some classics. Unless they ⁽³⁾ _____ (make) it all the way there, they ⁽⁴⁾ _____ (not get) these books.

On their journey, the travellers get into 81 dangerous situations, but they are always there to help each other. The book teaches us about working through challenges. The journey is full of difficulties, but the characters keep going. They know that if they ⁽⁵⁾ _____ (give) up, they ⁽⁶⁾ _____ (not achieve) their goal.

Although the novel was written in the 16th century, it is still popular in China and around the world! The story has been turned into television series, films and even video games. But unless you ⁽⁷⁾ _____ (read) the book yourself, you ⁽⁸⁾ _____ (not understand) the story fully!

B Famous writers

B1 Nora is listening to a programme about Jane Austen, a famous British writer. Listen with her and complete the notes below.

Jane Austen

Date of birth: 16 ⁽¹⁾ _____ 1775.

Childhood: She was encouraged to ⁽²⁾ _____ as a little girl.

Writing career: She wrote her first novel at around the age of ⁽³⁾ _____.

She wrote her most famous novels in her ⁽⁴⁾ _____.

Books published in her lifetime were described as being written "⁽⁵⁾ _____" instead of having her name on them.

Date of death: 18 July ⁽⁶⁾ _____.

Influence: Her books became popular after her ⁽⁷⁾ _____ and are now some of the most read and studied books in the world.

B2 Work in pairs and talk about your favourite writer. Use the example below to help you.

- A: There are so many great writers. Who is your favourite?
- B: I like the Chinese poet Li Qingzhao. She lived in the Song Dynasty. Her works are full of feelings, often about love and loss. She also wrote a lot about her own experiences.
- A: What makes her poems special?
- B: She was good at using beautiful language to express her thoughts and feelings. Her choice of words helps make her poems very moving. Who is your favourite writer?
- A: Mine is Emily Dickinson. She was an American poet from the 19th century. Her poems have a musical quality. She often wrote about nature, friendship and love.
- B: Sounds great! I'd like to read some of her poems this weekend.

C Celebrating World Book Day

C1 Nora is reading an article about World Book Day. Read with her and answer the questions below.

World Book and Copyright Day, often known as World Book Day, falls on 23 April. The first World Book Day was started by UNESCO in 1995. Today, it is celebrated in more than 100 countries around the world.

World Book Day aims to encourage people to discover the pleasure of reading. When people enjoy reading, they are more likely to learn from books and improve themselves. Thus, they may achieve more success in their life. So, it is important for everyone to learn about the joys and wonders of reading as this helps create a great lifelong habit.

There are many different ways to celebrate World Book Day. Reading competitions, interviews with famous writers, group discussions, visits to the libraries and book exchanges among friends are all popular events on this day. Of course, the simplest way to celebrate is just to sit down and read a great book!

1 What organization started World Book Day?

2 When was the first World Book Day celebrated?

3 What is the goal of World Book Day?

4 Why is it important for people to learn about the pleasure of reading?

5 According to the writer, what is the simplest way to celebrate World Book Day?

6 What else can you do to celebrate World Book Day?

C2 If World Book Day is coming soon, what book would you like to recommend to your classmates? Complete the table below and then write an article about the book.

Notes

Unit 1

- 1 “He’s a born artist. He’s quiet, but his work shouts.” (page 8, lines 1–2)
“他是一位天生的艺术家。他很安静,但是他的作品却极具说服力。”
句中的 his work shouts 运用拟人这一修辞手法,传神地表达出很多艺术家的一种特性——用作品说话。句中 quiet 与 shout 形成强烈的对比,强化了语言效果。
- 2 “To us, a miss is as good as a mile. Any mistake may cost lives,” said Mr Liu. (page 9, lines 23–24)
刘先生说:“对我们来说,失之毫厘,谬以千里。任何错误都可能要付出生命的代价。”
(1) 句中的 a miss is as good as a mile 是英语谚语。
(2) 句中的 miss 是名词,意思是“未击中,未到达,错过”。如:
He hit the target five times without a single miss. 他五次都命中目标,无一失手。
(3) 句中 cost 的意思是“使丧失,使损失”。如:
His mistake cost them the game. 他的错误让他们输掉了整场比赛。
- 3 Your personality is a special mix of your thoughts, feelings and behaviours. (page 15, Part A)
你的个性是你的思想、情感和行为的独特融合。
句中的 mix 是名词,意思是“混合,结合”。如:
The film is a mix of fantasy and reality. 这部电影是幻想与现实的结合。
- 4 The environment, including your education, your experiences as well as the people around you, can change your personality. (page 15, Part A)
环境因素,包括你周围的人、你接受的教育以及你的经历,都会改变你的个性。
短语 as well as 的意思是“除……之外,还”。如:
Success requires determination, courage as well as hard-working spirit.
要想获得成功,除了要有吃苦耐劳的精神,还需要有决心和勇气。
- 5 In other words, a mix of nature and the environment most likely shapes your personality. (page 15, Part A)
换句话说,极有可能是天性和环境共同影响了你的个性。
句中的 most likely 意思是“极有可能”。此处 most 并非最高级,而是表示“非常,极其”。如:
The bus is most likely to be late. 公共汽车很可能晚到了。
- 6 David is also confident and never afraid to voice his ideas. (page 18, Part D2)
戴维也很自信,从来不害怕表达自己的观点。
句中的 voice 用作动词,意思是“表达,吐露(感情或意见)”。如:
Remember to voice your own thoughts when talking with others.
和别人交谈时,记得表达你自己的想法。

Unit 2

- 1 Staying up late is not a healthy habit and can lead to big health problems. (page 21, Part B)

熬夜是不健康的习惯,可能会导致严重健康问题。

短语 lead to 意思是“导致,引起;通向”。如:

A lack of exercise can lead to poor health. 缺乏锻炼可能会导致健康状况不佳。

All roads lead to Rome. 条条大路通罗马。

- 2 If you don't want to cut back on reading, you should try to manage your time better. (page 21, Part B)

如果你不想减少阅读的时间,你应该设法更好地管理时间。

短语 cut back (on sth) 的意思是“减少,削减,缩减”。如:

To save money, we should cut back on eating at restaurants.

为了省钱,我们应该少去餐馆吃饭。

He is trying to cut back on spending. 他正在设法削减开支。

- 3 I am never allowed to eat food my parents think is unhealthy, even as a treat. (page 22, lines 7-8)

我爸妈从来都不让我吃他们认为不健康的食物,哪怕是偶尔尝尝也不行。

(1) 句中 allow 的意思是“允许,准许”。常用结构有 allow sb to do sth,意思是“允许某人做某事”,其被动语态为 be allowed to do sth。如:

You are not allowed to talk in the library. 图书馆里不许交谈。

(2) 句中的 treat 用作名词,意为“(尤指不经常吃的)美味食物”。如:

To the children in that country, chocolate is a real treat.

对那个国家的孩子而言,巧克力是真正难得吃上一回的美味。

- 4 But I do not want my schoolwork to suffer because of it. (page 23, lines 13-14)

但是我不想我的学业因此受到影响。

句中的 suffer 为不及物动词,意思是“变差,变糟”。如:

He is worrying about his parents and his work is beginning to suffer.

他担心着父母,工作开始受到影响。

此外, suffer 还有“(因疾病、痛苦等)受苦,受难,受折磨”的意思,常与 from 连用。如:

The old man suffers from memory loss. 这位老人饱受失忆之苦。

- 5 It is very important not to let a bully get you down. (page 32, Part D2)

不要因恃强凌弱之人而沮丧,这非常重要。

短语 get sb down 的意思是“使某人悲伤(沮丧、忧郁等)”。如:

Don't let anything get you down. 不要因任何事而沮丧。

Unit 3

1 Against the odds (page 36)

尽管困难重重

短语中的 odds 是名词,意为“逆境,不利条件”。如:

The book tells a moving story about triumph against the odds.

这本书讲述了一个关于克服重重困难获得成功的感人故事。

2 Stephen Hawking: the mind beyond the wheelchair (page 36)

斯蒂芬·霍金:不受轮椅束缚的天才

斯蒂芬·霍金(1942—2018)是英国物理学家,其主要研究领域是宇宙论和黑洞。他21岁时患肌肉萎缩性侧索硬化症(俗称“渐冻症”),全身瘫痪,后又丧失语言能力。但是,他以坚强的毅力和勇气,坚持不懈地探索宇宙的奥秘。他著有科学著作《时间简史:从大爆炸到黑洞》《果壳中的宇宙》等。

3 His highly popular book, A Brief History of Time, has been translated into more than 30 languages and sold over 25 million copies since it was first published in 1988. (page 37, lines 23–26)

他的畅销书《时间简史》自1988年首次出版以来,已被翻译成30多种语言,销量超过2500万册。

《时间简史》是英国物理学家斯蒂芬·霍金的科学著作,讲述了关于宇宙的前沿知识。

4 Hawking never let his illness stand in his way. (page 37, lines 29–30)

霍金从来没有让疾病成为他前进的阻碍。

短语 stand in sb's way 的意思是“妨碍某人”。如:

I will not stand in your way. 我不会阻碍你的。

5 “However difficult life may seem, there is always something you can do and succeed at,” he once said. “It matters that you don’t just give up.” (page 37, lines 30–32)

“无论生活看起来多么艰难,总有你可以做并取得成功的事情,”他曾说,“重要的是你不要放弃。”

句中 however difficult life may seem 是 however 引导的让步状语从句, however 的意思是“无论到什么程度,不管多么”。however 引导让步状语从句时,后面通常接形容词或副词。如:

However carefully I explained, she still did not understand.

无论我解释得多么仔细,她还是不理解。

6 Thanks to his strong will, Yang finally got a chance to continue his dream. (page 46, Part D2)

多亏了强大的意志力,杨帆最后有机会继续他的梦想。

短语 thanks to 的意思是“幸亏,由于,因为”,后接名词、代词或动词的 -ing 形式,表示感谢的对象。如:

Thanks to your help, I succeeded in getting a good job.

多亏你帮忙,我才成功找到一份好工作。

Unit 4

- 1 We can carry on like bamboo till the hard time passes. (page 49, Part B)

我们可以像竹子一样继续努力,直到困难的时刻过去。

短语 carry on 意思是“继续做,坚持干”。如:

Carry on as usual while I'm away. 我不在时,照常工作。

- 2 “Since you all enjoy eating peanuts, let's make it a peanut field.” (page 50, lines 3–4)

“既然你们都爱吃花生,就用它做块花生地吧。”

句中的 since 用作连词,意思是“既然”,一般用于引出大家已知的事实。如:

Since everyone is here, let's start our meeting.

既然大家都在这里,我们开始开会吧。

- 3 Unlike apples and peaches that show their fruits in the air and attract people with their beautiful colours, the peanut plant hides its fruits in the earth. (page 51, lines 18–21)

花生的果实埋在地里,不像苹果、桃子那样,把果实高高地挂在枝上,那美丽的颜色使人一见就生爱慕之心。

句中 that show their fruits in the air and attract people with their beautiful colours 是 that 引导的定语从句,修饰先行词 apples and peaches。定语从句常用关系代词 that 或 which 指物, that 或 who 指人。如:

There is a small door which/that we didn't notice before.

有一扇我们以前没有注意到的小门。

The man who/that found our dog moved here a week ago.

找到我们狗的那人一周前刚搬到这里。

- 4 Until you dig it out, you can't tell by looking at its thin stem whether it bears fruits or not. (page 51, lines 21–22)

你不能从它细细的茎上分辨出它是否结了果,必须挖出来才知道。

句中 tell 的意思是“看出,知道,确切地判断”。如:

I could tell that the boy was very excited from his voice.

从小男孩的声音我能判断出他很激动。

- 5 We stayed up late that night and ate all the peanuts Mother had cooked for us. (page 51, lines 31–32)

我们那一晚谈到深夜才散,吃光了母亲做的所有花生。

句中的 Mother had cooked for us 是定语从句,修饰先行词 all the peanuts,省略了关系代词 that/which。当关系代词 who/that/which 在从句中充当宾语时,可以省略。如:

This is a problem (that/which) everyone is trying to solve.

这是一个大家正努力解决的问题。

- 6 Dunhuang caves house about 45,000 square metres of wall paintings and over 2,000 painted sculptures. (page 57, Part A)

敦煌石窟拥有约 4.5 万平方米的壁画和 2000 余尊彩绘雕塑。

句中的 house 用作动词,意思是“收藏,安置”。如:

The museum houses a large collection of works of art and is free to visitors.

这个博物馆收藏了很多艺术品,游客可免费参观。

- 7 She led her team to create the “Digital Dunhuang” website in 2016 after more than 30 years of hard work. (page 57, Part A)

她带领团队经过 30 多年的努力后,在 2016 年上线了“数字敦煌”网站。

2016 年,“数字敦煌”资源库上线,向全球免费共享敦煌石窟 30 个洞窟整窟高清数字化图像和全景漫游,推动中华优秀传统文化“活”起来,走出去。“数字敦煌”资源库成为面向全球传播敦煌文化的重要窗口。

Unit 5

- 1 Music is a piece of art that goes in the ears straight to the heart. (page 64)

音乐是从耳朵直击心灵的艺术。

- 2 The 15th UN Convention of Biological Diversity opened to the beautiful music of “One Earth One Spring”. (page 66, lines 1–4)

联合国《生物多样性公约》第十五次缔约方大会在《和光同春》的优美音乐中开幕。

《生物多样性公约》第十五次缔约方大会在昆明召开,主题曲是《和光同春》,由联合国教科文组织全球亲善大使谭盾作曲。谭盾在作品中融入多元的音乐元素,用音乐语言表达中华文明与世界其他文明的交流互鉴。

- 3 Tan Dun, a world-famous composer, wrote the music. (page 66, lines 4–5)

谭盾,一位世界著名的作曲家,创作了乐曲。

谭盾是著名的作曲家,其创作的电影音乐《卧虎藏龙》曾获奥斯卡电影最佳原创音乐奖。谭盾曾受邀担任 2008 年北京奥运会开幕式音乐策划。

- 4 Born in central Hunan, China, Tan Dun grew up near the Liuyang River. (page 66, lines 8–9)

谭盾出生于中国湖南省的中部地区,他是在浏阳河边长大的。

句中的 born in central Hunan, China 是动词 -ed 形式的短语充当状语,逻辑主语是 Tan Dun。如:

Served with milk and sugar, it makes a delicious breakfast.

配上糖和牛奶,它就是一顿美味的早餐。

- 5 He loved the sounds of the rushing water and the blowing wind because, to him, the best music came from nature. (page 66, lines 10–12)

他喜欢淙淙的水声和飒飒的风声,因为对他来说,最美妙的音乐来自大自然。

句中的 rushing、blowing 是动词 -ing 形式充当定语,生动形象地刻画水和风的流动性。

- 6 As he likes the sounds of nature, Tan uses them a lot in his music. (page 67, lines 18–19)

因为喜欢自然界的聲音,谭盾经常将其运用于他的音乐中。

句中 as 用作连词,意思是“因为,由于”。as 和 since 可以引导原因状语从句,但语气要

比 because 弱一些。如:

As I have too much free time, I decide to go with you.

因为我有太多空闲时间,所以我决定和你们一起去。

- 7 In 1998, he wrote an amazing piece called Water Concerto. (page 67, lines 19–20)
1998 年,他写过一部惊人之作,名叫《水乐》。

《水乐》将与人们生活息息相关的水作为乐器,使用多种有关水的装置,比如,水锣、水音琴、漂浮在水中的木制碗,控制水流速度,让水发出各种不同的声音,演奏出丰富美妙的旋律。

- 8 “My music is to dream without boundaries,” Tan once said. (page 67, line 31)
谭盾曾说过:“我的音乐就是梦想无边。”

句中的 to dream without boundaries 是动词不定式用作表语。如:

My job is to clean the room every day. 我的工作就是每天打扫房间。

Unit 6

- 1 Four treasures of the study (page 79)

文房四宝

文房四宝是笔、墨、纸、砚四种文具的统称。文房即书房。

- 2 ... I decided to give it a try myself the very same day. (page 80, lines 9–10)

……就在那一天,我决定自己尝试一下。

句中 the very same 的意思是“完全同样,完全同一”,等同于 exactly the same,表示强调。如:

My friend and I went to the very same college. 我和我朋友去了同一所大学。

- 3 I could hardly sit still for more than a few minutes! (page 80, lines 13–14)

我几分钟就坐不住了!

句中的 still 用作形容词,意思是“静止的,安静的”。如:

The little girl kept still in her chair reading a book.

小女孩一动不动地坐在椅子上看书。

- 4 While practising my calligraphy skills, I also learn more about Chinese characters. They have developed from drawings into present forms over thousands of years. (page 81, lines 18–20)

练习书法技巧的同时,我也学到了更多关于汉字的知识。几千年来,汉字从图形逐步演变成现在的形式。

汉字是世界上最古老的文字之一,已有六千年左右的历史。在字形上,汉字逐渐由图形变为笔画,由象形变为象征,由复杂变为简易;在造字原则上,汉字经历了从表形、表意到形声的演变过程。

- 5 When I am writing, I can often feel my breath slow down and my mind get quiet. (page 81, lines 27–28)

当我写字时,我经常能感觉到我的呼吸变平缓了,我的思绪变得平静。

句中 feel 的意思是“注意到, 感觉到”, 常见用法有 feel sb/sth/oneself do sth、feel sb/sth/oneself doing sth。如:

She felt her mother's arms go around her. 她感觉到母亲搂住了自己。

I felt my heart beating fast. 我感觉我的心脏跳动得很快。

Unit 7

- 1 Cinema is a mirror by which we see ourselves. (page 92)
电影是一面镜子, 从中我们能看到自己。
句中的 by which we see ourselves 是限制性定语从句, 修饰先行词 a mirror。当关系代词 which 前面有介词时, which 不可省略, 也不可以用 that 代替。
- 2 Audrey Hepburn is one of Hollywood's all-time greatest actresses. (page 94, lines 1-2)
奥黛丽·赫本是好莱坞有史以来最伟大的女演员之一。
奥黛丽·赫本(1929—1993)是一位英国电影演员。1953年, 赫本主演的爱情喜剧片《罗马假日》上映, 她凭借该片获得奥斯卡最佳女演员奖。赫本晚年一直致力于公益事业, 担任联合国儿童基金会的亲善大使, 从事人道主义工作。
- 3 Hepburn's beauty and charm caught the writer's attention. (page 94, lines 10-11)
赫本的美貌和魅力吸引了这位作家的注意。
短语 catch sb's attention 意思是“引起某人的注意”。如:
A sign on the wall caught my attention. 墙上的标志引起了我的注意。
- 4 Colette insisted that Hepburn was the perfect girl for the lead role in Gigi, a play based upon her novel, although Hepburn had never played any major roles before. (page 94, lines 11-14)
《吉吉》这部戏是根据科莱特的小说改编的, 科莱特坚持赫本是该戏主角的最佳人选, 尽管赫本之前从未出演过任何重要角色。
句中 insist 的意思是“坚决要求, 坚持”。如:
Mike insisted that she should come. 迈克坚持要她来。
- 5 Hepburn's achievements went beyond the film industry. (page 95, line 25)
赫本的成就不仅限于电影业。
短语 go beyond 的意思是“超过, 超出”。如:
As a nurse, her work goes beyond taking care of the patients.
作为护士, 她的工作不仅仅是照顾病患。
- 6 On 20 January 1993, she passed away peacefully in her sleep. (page 95, lines 36-37)
1993年1月20日, 她(赫本)在睡梦中安然辞世。
短语 pass away 是委婉语, 意思是“去世”。如:
Her grandpa passed away at the age of 80. 她的爷爷八十岁时去世了。

- 7 It is a film set in India and based on a true story. (page 104, Part D2)

这是一部以印度为背景的影片,改编自真实故事。

句中 set in India 是动词 -ed 形式的短语充当定语,修饰前面的 a film。

Unit 8

- 1 Johnsy lay there, very thin and very quiet. (page 108, line 3)

琼西躺在那里,很瘦,很安静。

句中的 very thin and very quiet 是形容词充当伴随状语,补充说明主语的状态。

- 2 “It doesn’t make any sense. What does an old tree have to do with you?”
(page 108, lines 11–13)

“这根本讲不通。一棵老树和你有什么关系?”

(1) 短语 make sense 的意思是“说得通;有意义”。如:

I think everything he says makes sense. I will vote for him.

我觉得他说的都有道理。我将投票给他。

(2) 短语 have to do with ... 的意思是“与……有关系”。如:

It turned out that he had nothing to do with the case.

结果表明他和这个案件无关。

- 3 He had always talked of painting a masterpiece, but he had yet to start it.
(page 109, lines 19–20)

他总是说要画一幅杰作,但还没开始。

短语 have yet to do sth 表示“尚未做某事,某事尚未发生”。如:

They have yet to make a final decision. 他们还没有做出最终决定。

- 4 He was ill because of being out in the cold all night. (page 109, lines 32–33)

他生病是因为整夜待在寒冷的户外(画画)。

句中动词 -ing 形式的短语 being out in the cold all night 充当 because of 的宾语。

- 5 Didn’t you ever wonder why it never moved when the wind was blowing?
(page 109, lines 33–34)

难道你没有想过为什么风吹的时候它从来不动?

“Didn’t you ever wonder ...?” 是一般疑问句的否定形式,可用于表示诧异、反问、责备等语气。如:

Didn’t you remember your promise to me?

难道你不记得你对我的承诺了吗?

- 6 Like many of O. Henry’s short stories, the charm of “The Last Leaf” ⁽⁶⁾ lies in its surprise ending. (page 111, Part C)

像欧·亨利的许多短篇小说一样,《最后一片叶子》的魅力在于它出人意料的结局。

短语 lie in 的意思是“在于,存在”。如:

Our success lies in working together as a team.

我们的成功在于团队通力合作。

- 7 It does not matter whether that hope is to paint a ⁽⁸⁾ masterpiece or just stay alive. (page 111, Part C)

至于这希望是画一幅杰作,还是仅活下去,这并不重要。

句中的 whether 用作连词,引导让步状语从句。如:

Whether it rains or not, we are going to have a party tomorrow.

不管是否下雨,我们明天都要举行聚会。

- 8 King Lear: Tell me, my daughters,
Which of you loves me most?
Goneril, my eldest, speak first.

Goneril: Sir, I love you more than words can say;
A love that makes breath poor, and speech unable.

More than anything, I love you. (page 115, Part A)

李尔王: 我的女儿们,告诉我,你们谁最爱我? 高纳里尔,我的大女儿,你先说。

高纳里尔: 父亲,我的爱使得唇舌无力,言辞薄弱;我爱您胜过一切。

本段选自威廉·莎士比亚(1564—1616)创作的戏剧《李尔王》,是其“四大悲剧”之一。威廉·莎士比亚是英国剧作家、诗人,文艺复兴时期最具代表性的作家之一。其主要剧作有《哈姆雷特》《奥赛罗》《麦克白》《罗密欧与朱丽叶》《仲夏夜之梦》《威尼斯商人》等。

Grammar check

Unit 1

起连接作用的词

both ... and ...、not only ... but (also) ...、either ... or ... 和 neither ... nor ... 都是常见的并列连词,它们可以连接两个并列的主语、谓语、宾语、表语、状语等。except 和 as well as 也是常见的连接词。

- ◆ both ... and ... 意思是“……和……两者都,既……又……”。如:

Both New York and London have traffic problems. 纽约和伦敦都存在交通问题。

He can both swim and skate. 他既会游泳又会滑冰。

注意: 当 both ... and ... 连接的两个成分在句中充当主语时,谓语动词用复数形式。如:

Both she and I are good at English. 她和我都擅长英语。

- ◆ not only ... but also ... 意思是“不但……而且……,不仅……还有……”,其中 also 可以省略。如:

They speak English not only in class but (also) at home.

他们不仅在课堂上说英语,在家里也说。

During the Spring Festival, children not only wear new clothes but (also) get lucky money from their parents and relatives.

春节期间,孩子们不仅穿新衣服,还收到父母和亲戚给的压岁钱。

注意: 当 not only ... but (also) ... 连接两个名词或代词充当主语时,其谓语动词应与最近的一个主语在人称和数上保持一致,这就是我们通常说的“就近原则”。如:

Not only the students but (also) the teachers have lunch at school.

不仅学生们,还有老师们都在学校吃午饭。

- ◆ either ... or ... 意思是“要么……要么……,或者……或者……,不是……就是……”,用于连接两个表示选择关系的词。如:

When the girl is happy, she either sings or dances.

那个女孩高兴时,不是唱就是跳。

注意: 当 either ... or ... 连接两个主语时,应遵循“就近原则”。如:

Either you or I am going there tomorrow.

明天要么你去那里,要么我去那里。

- ◆ neither ... nor ... 意思是“既不……也不……”,具有否定含义。如:

It is neither too cold nor too dry in winter here.

这里冬天既不太冷也不太干。

注意: 当 neither ... nor ... 连接两个主语时,也应遵循“就近原则”。如:

Neither Lily nor her parents are at home today.

今天莉莉和她父母都不在家。

- ◆ except 意思是“除了……以外”,表示某人或某物被排除在外。如:

We go to school every day except Saturday and Sunday.

除了周六和周日,我们每天都要上学。

Lots of people have big dreams, but they are too shy to tell anyone except their closest friends.

很多人都有远大的理想,但是他们太害羞,除了最亲密的朋友不会告诉其他任何人。

All the students except Simon were in the classroom.

除了西蒙以外,所有学生都在教室里。

注意:此处 except 是介词,后面所跟名词不做主语。

- ◆ as well as 意思是“除……之外,也,还”。如:

Before you pick a job, it is best to consider your personality as well as your goals.

选择一份职业前,最好考虑你的目标和个性。

注意: as well as 连接两个主语时,谓语动词与前面的主语保持一致。如:

His parents as well as his sister were invited to the party.

不但他的父母,连他的妹妹也被邀请参加这次聚会。

区别: He doesn't sing as well as Tom. 他唱得不及汤姆好。

本句中的 as well as 意思是“和……一样好”,是“as + adj./adv. + as”的用法,表示同级比较。 that 引导的宾语从句

宾语从句是指在复合句中充当宾语的句子。如:

He thinks that he can go swimming tomorrow. 他认为他明天能去游泳。

I am glad that you can come for dinner. 我很高兴你能来吃晚餐。

注意: 宾语从句可用于主句动词之后,常见的动词有 know、think、believe、hope、mean 等;也可用于主句形容词之后,常见的形容词有 certain、sure、glad 等。

- ◆ 我们可用 that 引导宾语从句,此时从句部分相当于一个陈述句。如:
I hear that you have passed the exam. 我听说你通过考试了。
- ◆ 引导宾语从句的 that 没有词义,不充当句子成分,在口语或非正式文体中常被省略。如:
I do not believe (that) he will give up easily. 我相信他不会轻易放弃。

Unit 2

if 或 whether 引导的宾语从句

我们可用 if 或 whether 引导宾语从句,此时从句部分的语义相当于一个一般疑问句。如:

I want to know if/whether he is our new teacher. 我想知道他是不是我们的新老师。

- ◆ 连词 if 和 whether 意思是“是否”,在从句中不充当句子成分,在口语中多用 if。如:

Tom wonders if/whether his grandpa will come next week.

汤姆想知道他的爷爷下周是否过来。

- ◆ 宾语从句的语序必须是陈述句语序,即“连接词 + 主语 + 谓语 + 其他成分”。如:

“Did Mary clean the classroom yesterday?” Mr Hu is asking.

→ Mr Hu is asking if/whether Mary cleaned the classroom yesterday.

胡老师在问昨天玛丽有没有打扫教室。

- ◆ 宾语从句中的人称代词要符合逻辑,有时需进行合理变化。如:

She wonders, “Can I be a great scientist like Yuan Longping when I grow up?”

→ She wonders if/whether she can be a great scientist like Yuan Longping when she grows up. 她在想自己长大后能不能成为一位像袁隆平那样伟大的科学家。

“Can you help me?” she asks.

→ She asks if/whether I can help her. 她问我能不能帮助她。

连接代词和连接副词引导的宾语从句

我们可用连接代词或连接副词引导宾语从句,此时从句部分的语义相当于一个特殊疑问句。如:

We do not know whose pencil this is. 我们不知道这支铅笔是谁的。

Nobody knows when the train will arrive. 没人知道火车什么时候会到。

注意: 常见的连接代词有 what、who、whom、whose、which, 连接副词有 when、where、how、why。

- ◆ 连接代词和连接副词有词义,且在从句中充当句子成分。如:

Can you tell me what they are doing? 你能告诉我他们在做什么吗?

(what 在从句中做宾语,意思是“什么”)

- ◆ 宾语从句的语序必须是陈述句语序。如:

She wants to know why that little boy is crying. 她想知道那个小男孩为什么哭。

- ◆ 宾语从句中的连接代词 who 与 whom 都指人,意思是“谁”。其中 who 为主格,在从句中做主语; whom 为宾格,在从句中做宾语。如:

I do not know who is playing the piano next door. 我不知道谁在隔壁弹钢琴。

Can you guess whom/who my father is talking with?

你能猜猜我爸爸正在和谁谈话吗?

注意: whom 在口语中很少使用。大多数情况下,我们可以用 who 代替 whom。

- ◆ 含有宾语从句的复合句的标点由主句决定。如:

I am not sure if/whether the bag is big enough. 我不确定这个包是否够大。

Can you tell me which bus I should take? 你能告诉我该乘哪路公共汽车吗?

Unit 3

before、after、when 和 while 引导的时间状语从句

时间状语从句是指在复合句中充当时间状语的句子。如:

When the weather is good, my grandpa likes going fishing.

天气好的时候,我爷爷喜欢去钓鱼。

The sun came out after the storm ended. 暴风雨停止后,太阳出来了。

注意: 我们可以用 before、after、when 和 while 引导时间状语从句,这些词既可放在句首,也可放在句中。

- ◆ before 意思是“在……之前”,表示主句的动作发生在从句的动作之前。如:

Paper wasn't widely used before Cai Lun improved the method of making it.

在蔡伦改进造纸术之前,纸并没有被广泛使用。

- ◆ after 意思是“在……之后”,表示主句的动作发生在从句的动作之后。如:

I went to school after I finished my breakfast. 我吃完早饭后去上学。

- ◆ when 意思是“当……时”,表示主句的动作发生的特定时间。如:

The days get longer when spring comes. 春天到来时, 白天变长了。

注意: when 引导的从句的谓语动词可以是延续性的, 也可以是瞬时性的。

- ◆ while 意思是“当……时”, 强调主句的动作和从句的动作是同时发生的。如:

While my sister was sweeping the floor, I was washing the dishes.

我姐姐扫地时, 我在洗碗。

注意: while 引导的从句的谓语动词必须是延续性的。

while 还可以表示“在……期间”, 表示主句的动作发生在从句的动作进行的过程中。如:

While the boys were playing football, it rained. 当男孩们踢足球时, 下雨了。

注意: 在 when 和 while 引导的从句中, 当主句和从句的主语一致, 并且从句中有 be 动词时, 从句可以省略主语和 be 动词, 构成“when/while + 动词-ing/介词短语”结构。如:

While (I am) travelling, I like to buy some souvenirs. 旅游时我喜欢买些纪念品。

When (she is) in trouble, she always asks for my help.

她遇到困难时总是向我求助。

since, till 和 until 引导的时间状语从句

since, till 和 until 常用来引导时间状语从句。如:

Mr Brown has been in Beijing since you left. 自从你离开后, 布朗先生就一直待在北京。

I worked till/until he came back. 我一直工作到他回来为止。

- ◆ since 意思是“自从……以来”。一般情况下, 从句谓语动词用一般过去时, 而主句的谓语动词用现在完成时。如:

They have been friends since they were at primary school.

他们从小学起就一直是朋友。

注意: since 引导的从句的谓语动词可以是延续性动词, 也可以是瞬时性动词。

- ◆ till 和 until 意思是“到……为止”, 一般情况下两者可以互换, 但在句首一般不用 till, 而用 until。此外, till 不如 until 正式。如:

Walk till/until you see a red house. 一直走到你看到一座红房子为止。

注意: 如果主句中的谓语动词是瞬时性动词, 且用否定形式, 形成 not ... till/until 结构, 则意思是“直到……才(开始)”。如:

I did not go to bed till/until I finished the housework.

直到做完家务我才上床睡觉。

as soon as 和 whenever 引导的时间状语从句

我们常用 as soon as 和 whenever 引导时间状语从句。如:

As soon as I arrive in Canada, I will call you. 我一到加拿大, 就给你打电话。

Whenever he meets us, he smiles at us. 他每次遇见我们, 都向我们微笑。

- ◆ as soon as 意思是“一……就”。如:

We began to work as soon as we got there. 我们一到那里就开始工作。

He will visit you as soon as he gets there. 他一到那里就会去拜访你。

- ◆ whenever 意思是“每当; 无论何时”。如:

He likes listening to music whenever he has time.

每当他有时间的时候, 他喜欢听音乐。

注意: whenever 可以用 every time 替换。

Unit 4

动词-ing 用法

动词-ing 可以在句中用作主语、宾语、定语、表语和宾语补足语。

◆ 动词-ing 用作主语。如：

Smoking is not allowed in the museum. 博物馆里不允许抽烟。

Learning how to eat healthily is quite important. 学会如何健康饮食相当重要。

Hiking is a popular outdoor activity among young people.

徒步旅行是一项深受年轻人喜爱的户外活动。

◆ 动词-ing 用作宾语。如：

She likes helping others. 她喜欢帮助别人。

Do you mind showing me how to use the app?

你介意教我如何使用这个应用软件吗？

Thank you for inviting me to your birthday party. 谢谢你邀请我参加你的生日聚会。

Are you for or against keeping pets? 你赞成还是反对养宠物？

◆ 动词-ing 用作定语。如：

Amy thinks honesty is an amazing quality. 埃米认为诚实是了不起的品质。

He may be in the reading room, but I'm not sure. 他可能在阅览室, 但我不确定。

◆ 动词-ing 用作表语, 用于连系动词 (如 be 动词) 之后。如：

Seeing is believing. 眼见为实。

Her hobby is collecting stamps. 她的爱好是集邮。

◆ 动词-ing 可用在动词 hear、see、watch、catch、feel、notice 等之后, 做宾语补足语。如：

When I walked past his house, I heard him playing the piano.

当我经过他的房子时, 听到他正在弹钢琴。

Did you notice somebody knocking at the door just now?

你刚才注意到有人在敲门吗？

动词-ed 用法

动词-ed 可以用作形容词, 放在名词之前或连系动词 (如 be 动词) 之后。如：

The stranger had a surprised look on his face and went away.

这个陌生人面露惊讶的神色, 走开了。

The washing machine is broken. 这台洗衣机坏了。

Are you satisfied with the robot? 你对这个机器人满意吗？

注意：动词-ing 和动词-ed 都可以用作形容词, 但是含义不同。动词-ing 表达主动含义, 而动词-ed 表达被动含义。如：

The students are all interested in the interesting film.

学生们都对这部有趣的电影感兴趣。

The exciting news made us all excited. 这个令人兴奋的消息使得我们都很激动。

You should try not to be annoyed by some people when you find their behaviour annoying. 当你发现有些人的行为令人讨厌时, 你应该试着不去为此感到恼怒。

Unit 5

because 和 for 引导的原因状语从句

原因状语从句是指在复合句中表示主句动作发生原因的句子。我们可以用 because 和 for 引导原因状语从句。如：

I did not go to school yesterday because I was ill. 我昨天没去上学，因为我生病了。

Because it was raining, we had to stay at home. 因为下雨，我们只好待在家里。

The kids were excited about his arrival, for he would bring them some New Year presents. 孩子们为他的到来而兴奋，因为他将给他们带些新年礼物。

注意：because 引导的原因状语从句可以位于主句之前，也可位于主句之后。如果从句在前，从句与主句之间要用逗号隔开；for 引导的原因状语从句位于主句之后。

- ◆ because 意思是“因为”，表示动作发生的直接原因，语气很强，常用来回答 why 引导的疑问句。for 意思是“因为，由于”，比 because 正式，语气比 because 弱，一般不用于回答 why 引导的问题，可用于正式或文学性的书面语中。如：

—Why didn't he go with us today? 他为什么今天没跟我们一起去？

—Because he was too tired. 因为他太累了。

He must start planning now, for the future may bring unexpected changes.

他必须现在就开始计划，因为未来可能会有无法预料的变化。

- ◆ 汉语里我们习惯说“因为……所以……”，但使用英语时不能将 because 与 so 连用。如：

Because my bike was broken, I went to school by bus yesterday. (✓)

Because my bike was broken, so I went to school by bus yesterday. (✗)

since 和 as 引导的原因状语从句

我们也可以用 since 和 as 引导原因状语从句。如：

Since China's high-speed railway reaches more and more cities, it's easier for people to travel around now. 由于中国通高铁的城市越来越多，如今人们出行更方便了。

As you were not there, I left a message. 因为你不在那里，所以我留言了。

注意：和 because 相比，since 和 as 的语气稍弱。

- ◆ since 意思是“既然，由于，因为”，表示已知的、显然的理由，较正式，多位于句首。如：

Since it is late, I shall go home right now. (由于) 时间不早了，我得马上回家。

- ◆ as 和 since 的用法大体相同，表示附带说明的双方已知的原因。如：

As it is raining, you'd better take a taxi. 既然在下雨，你最好乘出租车。

Unit 6

限制性定语从句

在复合句中，定语从句用来修饰一个名词（短语）或代词。我们将被修饰的名词（短语）或代词称为先行词。定语从句通常出现在先行词之后，由关系词引出。如：

He is the man who I saw yesterday.

他就是我昨天见的那个人。（先行词为 the man）

Give me the book that you read last week.

把你上周读的书给我。(先行词为 the book)

Kunqu opera is a kind of traditional performing art which is still loved by many Chinese people today.

昆曲是一种至今仍受到许多中国人喜爱的传统表演艺术。(先行词为 a kind of traditional performing art)

关系代词

在定语从句中,常见的关系代词有 who、which、that。它们代替所修饰的先行词,在定语从句中充当主语、宾语等成分。关系代词 who、which、that 做宾语时通常可以省略。

◆ 关系代词 who 指人,在定语从句中做主语或宾语,做宾语时可用 whom 代替。如:

Yesterday I helped an old man who lost his way. 昨天我帮助了一位迷路的老人。

Mr Lin is just the man (who/whom) I want to interview. 林先生就是我想采访的人。

◆ 关系代词 which 指物,在定语从句中做主语或宾语。如:

The building which stands near my school is a supermarket.

位于我的学校旁边的那幢大楼是一家超市。

This is the kite (which) he bought yesterday. 这就是他昨天买的风筝。

◆ 关系代词 that 指人时,相当于 who;指物时,相当于 which;在定语从句中做主语或宾语。如:

The boys that are playing football are from Class Two.

那些正在踢足球的男孩是二班的。

The girl (that) you saw in the park is a friend of mine.

你在公园见到的那女孩是我的朋友。

Mary likes music that is quiet and gentle. 玛丽喜欢轻柔的音乐。

The coat (that) I tried on this morning is quite nice. 我今早试穿的那件外套真漂亮。

Is there anything (that) I can do for you? 有什么我能为你做的吗?

注意: 在含有定语从句的复合句中,如果关系代词充当从句的主语,则从句中谓语动词与先行词在人称和数上保持一致。如:

Now we have many students who study traditional Chinese painting.

现在我们有很多学习国画的学生。

The man who lives next door to us is very friendly.

住在我们隔壁的那个男人很友善。

Unit 7

although 和 though 引导的让步状语从句

让步状语从句表示即便出现从句中的情况,主句动作仍然会发生。如:

I will try it, although I may fail. 即使我可能会失败,我也要试一下。

Though he did not have much money, he was still happy.

虽然他不富有,但他仍然很快乐。

注意: although 和 though 常用来引导让步状语从句,这两个连词意思大致相同,在一

般情况下可以互换使用。在口语中, though 较常用, although 比 though 更正式一些。

- ◆ although 和 though 意思是“尽管, 虽然, 即使”。如:

Although/Though it was only eight o'clock in the evening, there were few people in the streets. 虽然才晚上八点钟, 街上就没什么人了。

- ◆ although 和 though 引导的让步状语从句不能和 but 连用。如:

Although/Though you are a little younger than me, you are much taller. (✓)

Although/Though you are a little younger than me, but you are much taller. (✗) so ... that 和 such ... that 引导的结果状语从句

结果状语从句用来补充说明主句动作所带来的结果。如:

The boy is so young that he cannot go to school. 那个男孩年纪太小, 不能上学。

It is such nice weather that I would like to go to the beach. 天气这么好, 我想去海滩。

- ◆ so ... that 意思是“如此……以至于”。其中 so 是副词, 用来修饰形容词或副词。如:

The Beijing 2022 Olympic Winter Games were so successful that winter sports have become increasingly popular in China.

2022 年北京冬奥会是如此成功, 以至于冬季运动在中国越来越流行。

- ◆ such ... that 的意思与 so ... that 相同。但由于 such 是限定词, 所以只能修饰名词或名词短语。如:

Mike is such an honest man that we all believe him.

迈克是个很诚实的人, 我们都相信他。

so that 引导的目的状语从句

目的状语从句用以说明主句动作发生的目的。如:

Say it louder so that everyone can hear you. 说大声点儿, 让大家都能听到你。

I am going to take an early bus so that I will get there in time.

我打算乘早班公共汽车, 以便及时赶到那里。

- ◆ 我们常用 so that 引导目的状语从句, 其中 so that 意思是“以便”, 可以与 in order that 互相替换。如:

We will come at eight so that the meeting can begin early.

我们八点来, 以便会议能早点开始。

= We will come at eight in order that the meeting can begin early.

- ◆ 在目的状语从句中, 常使用情态动词 can、may、will、could、might、would、should 等。如:

I got up early so that I could catch the first train.

我起得很早, 为了赶上首班火车。

Unit 8

if 引导的条件状语从句

条件状语从句在复合句中表示主句动作发生的条件。if 意思是“如果, 假如”, 可用来引导条件状语从句。如:

If it does not rain tomorrow, we will go hiking. 如果明天不下雨,我们就去远足。

You will get good grades if you study hard. 如果你努力学习,就会取得好成绩。

注意: if 引导的条件状语从句可以位于主句之前,也可位于主句之后。如果从句在前,从句与主句之间要用逗号隔开。

- ◆ 在 if 引导的条件状语从句中,主句中的动词常用一般将来时,从句中的动词用一般现在时。如:

If you ask him, he will help you. 如果你请他(帮忙),他会帮你的。

They are going to have a picnic if they are free next Saturday.

如果下周六有空,他们就去野餐。

- ◆ 在 if 引导的条件状语从句中,主句也可以含有情态动词或是祈使句。如:

If it is fine tomorrow, we can go and fly kites.

如果明天天气好,我们可以去放风筝。

Don't miss the programme if you like music. 如果你喜欢音乐,不要错过这个节目。

unless 引导的条件状语从句

我们还可以用 unless 来引导条件状语从句。如:

Unless he writes them down, he will forget things.

除非他把事情记下来,否则就会忘记。

We will not get there on time unless we leave earlier.

如果我们不早点离开,就不能准时到那里。

- ◆ unless 意思是“除非,如果不”,相当于 if ... not。如:

You will be late unless you leave at once. 如果你不马上走,你将会迟到。

= If you do not leave at once, you will be late.

- ◆ 在 unless 引导的条件状语从句中,主句中的动词常用一般将来时,从句中的动词用一般现在时。如:

Unless it rains, the game will be played. 除非下雨,否则比赛将照常进行。

- ◆ 同 if 引导的条件状语从句一样,在 unless 引导的条件状语从句中,主句也可以含有情态动词或是祈使句。如:

He cannot see clearly unless he wears glasses. 他不戴眼镜就看不清楚。

Don't touch the machine unless the teacher allows you to.

没有老师的允许,不要碰机器。
